Walmsley a finalist for Moline post

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Granite City Superintendent of Schools Gilbert "Gib" Walmsley, 53, is a finalist for the position of superintendent of schools in Moline, effective July 1.

A Granite City school employee for 29 years, including six years as superintendent, he currently is under contract as the superintendent here through the 1993-94 school year.

The topic was not discussed during Tuesday night's public meeting of the Granite City Board of Education.

Moline School District 40 is seeking a new superintendent to replace Richard A. Hennegan, 59, who is retiring at the end of this school year. A field of about eight candidates has been narrowed to three finalists, Moline school officials said.

A decision on his successor will be made on April 7, Hennegan said, adding that the position offers a combination of salary and benefits totaling about $90,000. The base salary for the Granite City superintendent position is $69,700.

Walmsley would not discuss his reasons for applying for the Moline post, his first bid for such a job, but said Tuesday that everything was going well in his work in Granite City

Walmsley

School District 9. He is aware of the salary difference and also regards the Moline job as potentially an interesting challenge.

As to what the future holds, he said, "I have been told that people in Moline have not released any information as of yet. They would have to inform me for me to know, and they haven't told me the situation there."

His contract with the Granite City district was extended in early March of 1991 to run through June 1994.

On July 23, 1991, he announced his intention to retire from the district effective June 30, 1995. The four-year notice entitles him to extra benefits under an early retirement program.

Classroom TV gets OK from board

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Students in grades 7-12 of the Granite City School District will soon be spending an additional 12 minutes a day in front of a television set.

The Granite City School Board on Tuesday night approved use of Channel One, a 12-minute daily news and informational TV program.

Despite some controversy about Channel One in various communities, school authorities generally conclude that its advantages outweigh its disadvantages.

The target date for implementation here is next fall, but signatures and paperwork remain to be completed.

Officials say the additional time in front of a TV set will be a positive experience for the students.

It will be shown through the home room classes of Granite City High School, Coolidge Junior High and Grigsby Junior High, and will offer information on news and current events.

"We feel that a lot of our kids do not watch news and information programs and this will give them that opportunity," Mike Sikora, administrative

Recognition finally comes for local doctor

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

After making a medical discovery 40 years ago, a Granite City doctor was finally able to get his work published this year, perhaps leading the way to improved treatment of breathing problems.

Gerard Baggot, M.D., 74, of the 2600 block of Edison Avenue, was born and raised in Dublin, Ireland. He moved to Granite City in 1961 after marrying his wife, Suzanne, who was from Alton.

He discovered the presence of sphincters or valves in the lungs in the 1950s when he was studying the mechanism of general anesthesia at Depaul Hospital in St. Louis.

Baggot had a medical practice in Granite City for more than 30 years and simultaneously tried to attain publication of his discovery. But he failed to garner enough support from his peers to achieve the goal, until now.

Not until the current issue of Medical Hypothesis, dated February 1992, were his findings published.

Dr. Baggot noticed the ring-shaped valve muscles when he was looking into lungs for obstacles that might complicate anesthesia, he said.

He bronchoscoped several thousand men, women and children as anesthesiologist at Depaul Hospital over a period of 10 years and in an anesthesiology practice following that.

Everybody knows the valvular mechanisms of the respiratory tract, which are seen in the nostrils, the lips and the larynx, he said.

"In generally normal lungs, I was looking for foreign and irritating masses in the airways."

"At this time, I noticed something which I had not seen nor heard described before, nor since, except by myself. That is the presence of sphincters in the bronchi," Baggot said.

He noted the presence of sphincters, circular rings that dilate and constrict, at the peripheral ends of the bronchi, just before they joined the smaller tubes leading toward the alveoli or lung wall.

"The existence of these sphincters and the possibility of their being too tight finally provides an explanation of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and related disorders," Baggot said.

Venice prepares to create zoning

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Venice may have a zoning ordinance within six months, in the hope of bringing development to the city, officials said.

The Venice City Council on Tuesday night approved the creation of a seven-member zoning commission to work with the Southwest Illinois Planning Commission in preparing a zoning ordinance for the city.

Thomas Wobbe of the Planning Commission told the council that industry and business will not come to Venice without proper zoning.

"If you don't think we need zoning, then give it to the county to control future development," Mayor Tyrone Echols said at the council meeting.

Wobbe, the Commission's director of planning, presented the case for zoning to the council. The commission is a state-created planning body designed to assist governmental bodies in planning and developmental activities.

The county could take over control of the zoning of future development in a city without a zoning ordinance, according to state law. Wobbe said Venice is the only city in St. Clair or Madison counties without a zoning ordinance.

"The advantage of adopting a zoning ordinance is to gain local control by guiding future development," Wobbe said.

"Zoning provides protection to areas because it gives officials standards on which to base approval or denial of development proposals."

"It eliminates problems from occurring because things that are detrimental to residential areas, for example, are kept out of residential areas."

"I think an effective tool to resolve problems and also offers regulations to keep problems or undesirable development from an area."

Existing businesses would not be affected. They would be "grandfathered" into the zoning ordinance, allowing them to remain and continue, Wobbe said.

The four- to six-month process of preparing for zoning involves creating a volunteer zoning commission to work alongside the

Mediation

Divorcing couples urged to get help with conflict

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Divorcing couples should let a mediator, rather than bad feelings, stand between them, according to area legal and counseling professionals.

Mediation is "basically getting two sides in a room to talk to each other with a person that's trained to listen to them," said Associate Judge Michael J. Meehan.

Meehan presides over the Third Circuit Court's Family Division in Madison County.

The results of mediation, he said, can be impressive.

Mediation "empowers people to make their own decisions and they're generally more satisfied with those decisions," Meehan said. "There is less enforcement of court orders needed."

The concept of mediation "is so new in this county that most people don't even know about it," said Elizabeth Levine Levy, an Edwardsville attorney. No state or other jurisdiction currently licenses mediators.

But recognition of mediation's merits is growing, and national professional associations, such as the Academy of Family Mediators and the Society for Professionals in Dispute Resolution, have established membership qualifications requiring minimum levels of training and experience.

Schroeder to address state board of education today

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — "Outstanding" teacher Edward Schroeder of Granite City has been asked to tell state education officials how he became so darn good.

Schroeder, named Outstanding Teacher of 1991 by a national panel, will speak at the state Board of Education meeting today about winning the Disney Corp. award and how it changed his life.

Schroeder said Tuesday he will tell board members that life has changed dramatically since Nov. 24 when 36 teachers winning Disney awards tabbed him as the best of the best.

"Not a day has gone by that I haven't heard from someone via the mail or telephone, whether it be a congratulatory message or an invitation to appear to speak," Schroeder said.

"It has just been unbelievable: I've been speaking all over the country, coast to coast."

Schroeder, an English teacher at Coolidge Junior High School, said he will tell education officials that his peers chose him as the best because they saw his devotion to teaching.

"It may sound self-serving, but I come across as someone who is totally devoted to the job, who loves what he is doing," he said. "I believe every teacher ought to get up and give the best performance every day."

Schroeder's Springfield visit with the Board of Education is just the tip of his speaking iceberg. In the next several months he will speak in Chicago, St. Louis, Florida, Hawaii, Michigan, Texas, North Carolina, Arkansas and Colorado.

"I keep getting offers daily," he said.

All the acclaim is causing Schroeder, 51, to consider becoming a full-time education speaker. He has a Hollywood agent booking engagements now.

He said the Granite City school board lets him accept as many speeches as he wants.

"When I am with my kids, I look at them and say, 'I can't leave the kids. This is my life.'"

A substitute teacher covers for Schroeder regularly.

Brimberry jewelry on auction block

Janice Brimberry once lived in a mansion and boasted that a movie star admired her diamonds.

Brimberry's lavish lifestyle crumbled in 1983 when her husband, Thomas, went to prison for his part in a scheme to loot $16 million from St. Louis Co., a stock brokerage in St. Louis.

The last glittering remnants of Janice Brimberry's rich life will go on the auction block April 13 at Collinsville.

The Internal Revenue Service will sell $69,000 in jewelry bought by Brimberry with money stolen from the stock fraud.

"It's a beautiful array of diamonds and gold rings and should attract a number of buyers," said Chris Zini of the IRS.

Janice Brimberry, 45, was sentenced to 33 months in federal prison in November 1990 for concealing $70,000 worth of jewelry bought with money stolen from the stock company.

"She was charged after she tried to sell the jewelry to undercover IRS agents," Chief Assistant U.S. Attorney Clifford Proud said.

Brimberry's prize $30,000 heart-shaped diamond is among the collection to be auctioned by the IRS at 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, 1000 Eastport Plaza, Collinsville.

The 4-carat diamond and another 2.2-carat diamond, valued at $12,357, also to be auctioned, were mounted in a necklace.

Brimberry said she once visited a Las Vegas hotel and was stopped by actress Ann-Margret who admired the necklace, Proud said.

A woman's gold fashion ring, with 22 round diamonds, estimated at $8,300, will also be on the auction block.

Proceeds from the auction will go toward $19.5 million in federal tax liens against Thomas and Janice Brimberry, said Bob Krieger, an official of the IRS collection division in Springfield.

Survey identifies local youth problems

What are the main problems facing local youth people in 1992? Six issues have been identified by the Youth Board of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

The Youth Board conducted a needs assessment to determine the top-priority problems for students in grades 7 to 12 within the Granite City, Madison and Venice school districts.

The following problems were identified by the survey as the most critical:

- Student alcohol use.
- Need for more places for students and their friends to go.
- Teen pregnancy.
- Drinking and driving.
- Fear of AIDS.
- Student drug use.

In response, the United Way Youth Board has announced the availability of $4,700 to be allocated this spring to programs addressing such youth needs.

Written proposals should be submitted to the Youth Board, c/o Tri-Cities Area United Way, 1821 Edison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

The deadline for accepting proposals is April 17.

All proposals for programs meeting valid youth needs will be considered. Requests for funding should include:

- Name of group or organization requesting funds.
- Amount of grant requested.
- Purpose of program.
- Proposed program activities.
- Number of youths to benefit.
- How program will be evaluated for success.

If a program is funded, all receipts, bills of sale, etc., must be submitted to the United Way Youth Board with an accompanying letter explaining the outcome of the project.

Requests for funding addressing any of the six leading youth problems will be given priority.

The Youth Board was developed in 1990 by the local United Way to create better community awareness of and appreciation for the potential of youth.

Students on the Youth Board work within the United Way system to develop and heighten youth input and involvement in meeting the health and human care needs of students.

The United Way Youth Board receives $10,000 from the United Way each year. These dollars are distributed by the Youth Board. The students develop priorities and learn to make difficult decisions concerning funding choices.

In December, the Youth Board allocated $5,300 to fund eight programs.

Tenants moving into new medical building

A formal dedication for the Wolf Medical Building, 2044 Madison Ave., part of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, is planned for late April, but tenants have already begun moving into the three-story structure.

"Drs. Syed Ali and Riaz Naseer, Rod Hartzel, and Abid Nisar moved during early March into their new locations in the Wolf Medical Building, formerly the Tri-Cor Building," said Jack Grieves, SEMC vice president.

"By the end of the month, Drs. Peter Anderson, Larry Harmon, Ijaz Jatala, Kevin Konzen and Gerald Mainar will begin moving as well."

•Mediation

Levy and Meehan joined other area legal officials and counselors recently in completing mediator training in St. Louis.

While courts in both Madison and St. Clair counties require divorcing couples to complete the Children's First program, Meehan said comparing that program to mediation is like comparing apples to oranges.

Children's First is a two-session program that combines videos with discussions to show parents — before the divorce — where problems may arise with their children.

"But it makes no attempt in the program itself to have people deal with the division of parental care responsibilities," said Levy.

Meehan, like many associate judges, spent two weeks in the Chicago court system, which he said uses mediation to resolve two-thirds of its child custody disputes.

Right now, Illinois state law allows judges to order a minimum of three hours of mediation to handle such custody cases, but the state is considering wider use.

Other states, like Missouri, California, Washington and New York, already rely more heavily on mediation, said Linda Casens, owner of InnerAction, a counseling agency in Edwardsville.

Meehan is working with a state Supreme Court committee studying alternate forms of dispute resolution, and he said mediation could be a viable solution in civil cases as well as family cases.

"If they can settle their disagreement then they don't need to go to court and that will certainly lessen the docket. It also eliminates the uncertainty of a court decision," he said.

Meehan emphasized that no one can be forced to settle his or her disagreements.

quarters, and for new physicians who will join our staff in the coming years," he said.

"Audiology has moved back into its permanent home on the first floor of the main building."

"The skywalk (over 21st Street, connecting the main medical center building with Wolf Medical Building) should be open for public use soon, and the parking garage entrance is being reopened," Grieves said.

"Offices located in the former Tri-Cor Building have been repainted and carpeting has been installed in public areas."

Technicality in DUI case is ruled out

People convicted of driving under the influence may find it harder to keep their driving privileges.

The 5th District Appellate Court recently reinstated proceedings to suspend a Downman's driver's license after a Third Circuit Court judge threw out the proceedings on a technicality.

The appeals court ruling could make it easier for prosecutors to keep people charged with drunken driving off the roads.

"There's no question about it," Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said.

Darren Melbourne was arrested by Hartford police late Jan. 11, 1991, after officers said they saw him driving north on the shoulder of Illinois 3.

He failed field sobriety tests. And the results of a breath-analysis test given early the next morning registered nearly three times the legal limit of alcohol, according to records.

Under state law, Melbourne's license was automatically suspended for 90 days after the charge.

However, his driving privileges were reinstated after his attorney argued that there was a discrepancy between the time police said he took the breath test and the time entered on the printout of the breath-analysis test results.

Associate Judge Michael Meehan canceled the license suspension based on inconsistencies in the log, the printout and the police officer's report.

The Appellate Court decision reversed Meehan's decision because a "mere scrivener's error committed by the arresting officer who administered the blood-alcohol test does not automatically invalidate the test."

Fitness group's 'father' agrees with Edgar: Its time has passed

SPRINGFIELD — State Rep. Jim McPike sponsored legislation creating the Governor's Council on Health and Physical Fitness but won't oppose Gov. Jim Edgar's plan to bench it forever.

The measure creating the council was McPike's first major bill when the Alton Democrat was a freshman legislator in 1977, but McPike said he had paid little attention to the agency recently.

"There's no question this is an agency that is hard to justify in tight budget times," McPike said, adding, "I don't think I'd disagree with" Edgar's statement Monday that the council should be abolished.

McPike said he was surprised the council received about $742,000 for the current fiscal year.

During the agency's first four years, when he was on the advisory board, McPike said he insisted the budget be small and its activities rely on volunteers. "I don't think it was over $50,000 a year," McPike, who is influential on budget issues as House majority leader, said the council's annual Prairie State Games might also lose state funding. The games encourage participation by youths, culminating in Olympic-style finals at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

"If you have the money to promote health and fitness, it's great," McPike said, "unless you have to choose between sick children and elderly people and providing the Prairie State Games."

A state audit report released Monday ripped the council's financial practices, listing dozens of alleged violations of state laws and regulations in purchases and record keeping.

Edgar said that while the auditors raised "serious questions," he had already decided that given Illinois' financial situation the state could no longer justify the council.

State infant mortality rate drops to lowest level ever

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — The chance that an Illinois baby would die decreased 9 percent from 1989 to 1990, when the infant mortality rate dropped to its lowest level in state history.

The number of babies dying before their first birthday fell from 11.7 per 1,000 births in 1989 to 10.7 in 1990, according to Department of Public Health records released Monday.

"This decline in the state's infant mortality rate is a result of extraordinary community and governmental efforts to protect our most vulnerable citizens," said John R. Lumpkin, director of Public Health.

"However, it is clear our job is still unfinished," he said. "There are still too many babies who die before they reach the age of 1."

1990 statistics are the most recent available, because statewide information must be verified and double-checked through an extensive process.

The number of baby deaths in 1989 was 2,217; in 1990, 2,090.

This decline in the state's infant mortality rate is a result of extraordinary community and governmental efforts to protect our most vulnerable citizens.

— John Lumpkin
Health director

The number of births was 190,247 in 1989 and 195,499 in 1990.

Lumpkin said too many babies are born sick, too small or into extreme poverty.

"We must continue to find innovative ways to educate mothers-to-be that early and comprehensive prenatal care, proper nutrition and family planning are crucial to having a healthy baby," Lumpkin said.

One such innovation is the Department of Public Health's Families with a Future program, which began in 1986 to ensure women of childbearing age have prenatal care and support services at the early stages of pregnancy or before conception. In 1990, Families with a Future served more than 40,000 women in 27 areas of the state that have the highest infant mortality rates.

The state's 1992 budget includes $150 million for reducing infant deaths, $39 million more than 1991.

Governor Jim Edgar pledged Monday continued support for reducing the deaths, saying he is "committed to providing the funding necessary to maintain our momentum in reducing the infant mortality rate."

Park District to rename two parks

The Granite City Park District Board of Commissioners has voted to rename West Granite Park in honor of Barry Loman.

In addition, the board voted to name its newly developed park on the site of the former Webster Elementary School. This new park will be named for Granite City attorney Randall Robertson of the Lueders, Robertson and Konzen law firm.

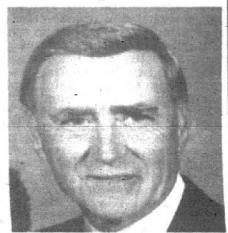

Robertson, a lifelong resident of Granite City, has served as the legal counsel for the Park District for over 40 years.

Loman, also a lifelong resident, has been a member of the Board of Commissioners for over 40 years and has served as board president.

The commissioners said they took this action in recognition of "the years of dedication that both individuals have given to the Park District" and as a tribute to their civic involvement.

Randall Robertson

Dedication ceremonies will be scheduled for the near future.

ICC to rule by August on rate increase for IP

The Illinois Commerce Commission will decide by Aug. 7 whether to revise its February rate increase for Illinois Power Co. electric customers.

ICC officials said they will take written testimony until April 8, with rebuttal allowed until April 28. Oral hearing cross-examination will occur the weeks of May 18 and May 26.

The testimony will focus on possibly phasing in the new rates as well as the amount of deferred charges that should be passed along to customers for the Clinton nuclear power plant. Deferred charges are post-construction costs, such as depreciation expenses, taxes and interest.

The ICC is taking further testimony on the deferred expenses because of an Illinois Supreme Court case decided just before the February rate boost was approved.

The Citizens Utility Board, a state consumer group, cited the Supreme Court decision as grounds for removing carrying charges included in prior rate hikes.

Meanwhile, the 9 percent, or $100 million, rate hike remains in effect and is being collected while the case is being reconsidered.

Exports to Japan important to major Illinois companies

(Guest editorial by the News-Sun, Waukegan)
Illinoisans should think twice — at least — before joining in the ongoing bashing of Japan.

Here are some facts to consider before sounding off about the Japanese:
Illinois firms exported $1.365 billion to Japan in 1990, a 13 percent increase over $1.210 billion in 1989.
Japan is this state's second largest export market after Canada ($5.2 billion in 1990).
Sales to Japan have grown steadily, from $552 million in 1987.

Some generic examples for 1990: Non-electric machinery, $443 million; electric machinery, $250 million; chemical products, $232 million; transportation equipment, $107 million; food products, $86 million.

Those figures from the Japan External Trade Organization in Chicago show pretty clearly that Japan-bashing for Illinoisans would be cutting off their noses to spite their faces. JETRO is run by the Japanese government to solicit Midwest exports.

These export numbers made Illinois ninth among all states and the No. 1 Midwestern state in exports to Japan in 1990. And Illinois workers also benefit directly.

Motorola and Caterpillar are two of the biggest Illinois firms doing business in Japan — both for many, many years. Motorola sells cellular telephones in Japan and the vast majority of the equipment is manufactured in Arlington Heights. Indeed, Motorola is adding to its cellular division capacity with a new plant under construction in Libertyville.

Caterpillar sold $400 million worth of equipment to Japan in 1990, including tractors and road graders manufactured in Aurora, Decatur and Peoria.

These are but two examples of Illinois jobs that surely depend in part on sales in Japan.

Peoria-based Caterpillar also has a joint venture with Mitsubishi. Motorola not only exports Illinois products to Japan, but also does business there through a subsidiary in Japan and a joint venture with Toshiba.

Many Illinois-based companies benefit from operations they have established in Japan or from joint ventures.

Caterpillar began exporting to Japan more than 25 years ago. The company adapted products to the Japanese consumer and has been so successful that it commands more than half of the Japanese market for its type of products.

Were the United States to clamp down on imports from Japan — a move of absolute economic folly — Japan could retaliate by reducing its imports from the United States. That could hurt many Illinois companies that depend on exports to Japan.

The big Illinois exporters understand the frustration with some of the Japanese markets that do remain closed to foreign products. However, import quotas surely won't open those markets. Illinois exporters rightly support continuing U.S. government efforts to open additional Japanese markets.

While some Japanese markets remain closed, others have opened up with the elimination of more than 100 tariffs. The JETRO office in Chicago notes a Japanese interest in importing thousands and thousands of different products.

The Caterpillar and Motorola experiences are proof that good old American — we should say Illinoisian — adaptability, commitment to quality, hard work and persistence still work.

Shortsighted protectionism would be bad for the nation — and especially for Illinois.

How health care works in Canada

I wrote my friend Bill Rennie, long-time editor/publisher of the Lincoln Post-Express, Beamsville, Ontario, to have him give me an inside assessment of the Ontario health system, which is being talked about as a solution to the health care dilemma in the U.S.

Some quotes from Bill: "Health care in Canada is called 'universal,' meaning that it is independent of income, and that is 95 percent true."

"Everyone is entitled to care by physicians and surgeons, specialists included, and to ward care in hospitals. I pay for Blue Cross, entitling me to semi-private rooms in hospitals, and one can also pay Blue Cross for private room care. But there is the extra charge."

"Employed persons pay monthly rates for the Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan deducted and remitted by the employer like income tax, workman's comp, etc. If you are unemployed, you don't pay. And if you reach the magic age of 65, you cease paying. Coverage includes prescriptions at the pharmacy."

"During the past 14 years, I haven't paid and I've had a quadruple bypass operation, gall bladder and aorta and aneurism business — all big bucks, plus things like X-rays and things in the outpatient departments, physicians' services and zillions of pills. All I have had to pay for is Blue Cross semi-private care, and when I had that heart business, $140 for a telephone in my room for seven days at 20 cents a day."

"All this sounds great and I know of no one who would change the system. But there's a cost."

"Despite the monthly payments by deductions from pay, I think universal health care eats up about a third of the provincial budget. It is most certainly costly."

"There can be long waits for elective procedures. There can be waits for elective surgery, and these are annoying, for sure."

"Example: Heart bypass operations have been increasing in numbers very dramatically. Last year a lot of people in southern Ontario began going to Detroit for these operations, where there was ample capacity."

"OHIP pays for these, as for many other specialized services in the U.S. Some became prohibitive. OHIP claimed gouging, and I agree."

"There were other situations: numbers of people spending weeks in Texas, for example, drying out from drugs and alcohol. The prices charged were ridiculous and OHIP finally clamped down and instituted a policy of paying no more than they would pay Ontario hospitals."

"I'm sure there must have been a dramatic drop in cross-border traffic."

"I would say there are very few cases to complain about for emergency care."

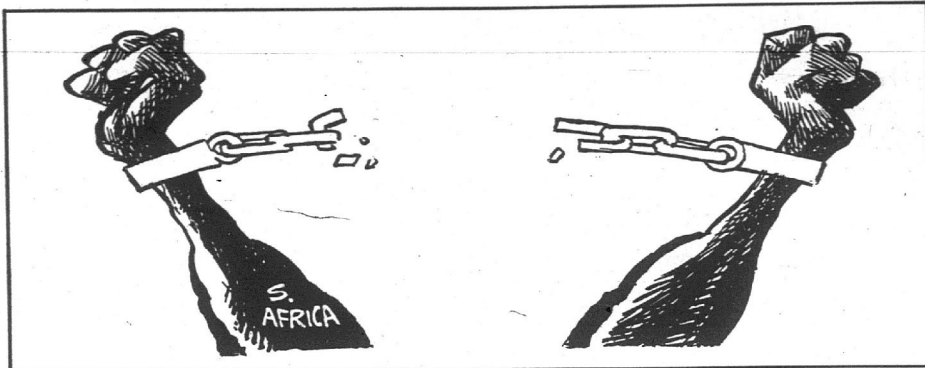

"Fees for physicians and surgeons are set by OHIP. The fees are forever, it seems, subject to complaint by the profession. The fee schedule is negotiated by OHIP and medical association ... OHIP last fall placed a limit of physicians' individual bills of $400,000."

"Private health care has just about disappeared. My doctor sends one bill per month to OHIP and receives one check."

"Isn't that worth a lot, no hassle? No billings and collection from individuals or insurers. When OHIP started, about 1965, all health care plans ceased to exist. I don't know what happened to the employees of the insurance companies."

"Most Canadians buy Blue Cross supplemental health care, per day, when they visit the U.S. or elsewhere in the country. I wouldn't think of doing without it, because OHIP has put a ceiling on the rate charged. It costs me about $2 a day, family rate."

"I'll follow up with more soon, giving other details of the Ontario plan, and Bill's sage comments on them."

Abe Lincoln didn't look presidential, Harding did

Appearance, as opposed to substance.

The name of the game, if some Metro East political pundits are to be believed, And boy, should we all be thankful they weren't around calling the shag, in those good old days when some of our past "greats" were candidates for the presidency.

Oh, sure, we'd have had Washington — he LOOKED presidential.

Jefferson, definitely — looks like Adams due? Maybe.

But Madison County might have been called Pinckney County if diminutive James Madison, the father of the Constitution, had appeared to the voters on a TV screen. Too short, not "electable," they would have cried.

I don't know what slogan our license plates would have carried, but it wouldn't have been "Land of Lincoln" — one look at that craggy face with its deep furrows and warts and Honest Abe would have been brushed off, a "shoo-out."

At least this would have been the thinking of some in St.

Clair and Madison counties, if their recent remarks on current Democratic candidates reflect the views of the national electorate.

Political leaders in the two-county area — at least some of those who favor Bill Clinton over Jerry Brown and Paul Tsongas — were quick to remark on appearance in recent comments to the press.

Bruce Cook, a Belleville attorney and Democratic super delegate to the national convention, said of Clinton that he "looks presidential. He's well-spoken. I think people want presidents to look like presidents. People do vote for that reason."

Not all of us, Mr. Cook, not all of us.

George Donohoe, Wood River Township Democratic chairman, said that Clinton had some of the "JFK appeal" — "He's got more charisma. He has a way of presenting himself to the voters."

And Edward Voumard Sr., Alton Township Democratic chairman, in a similar vein, remarked that Clinton's "good looks are part of it. You have to sell yourself to voters."

The worst quote by far came from C. Barney Metz, St. Clair County's circuit clerk, who in addition to liking Clinton's "fresh face" is not knocked out with Hillary. "His wife would make a fine First Lady. They could put some of the flash back in Washington, D.C."

Please notice that Metz refers to "flash" — not quality, not class — merely flash.

To his credit, John Baricevic, chairman of the St. Clair County Board, refrained from commenting on looks, charisma or "flash," and did not imply that voters were such stupid dolts that these were qualities they valued in a candidate.

Baricevic instead praised the manner in which Clinton had handled criticism of his draft status during Vietnam and the allegations of hanky-panky.

"He didn't try to hide anything ... the voters responded to that positively," Baricevic said, adding that he felt Clinton speaks to middle-America.

Mind you, I'm not knocking Bill Clinton. I might even end up voting for him, if he seems to be looking good on TV or will add "flash" to the nation's capital.

I'm just questioning the mind-set of some would-be king-makers. They don't speak for me and I hope they don't speak for a lot of you.

We all liked Ike — he looked like everybody's Dad. Jack Kennedy was the ideal All-American boy, preferably from next door. But I suspect that way down the line, history will treat with greater respect that fellow who looked like a small town druggist, Harry Truman, than it will either JFK or Eisenhower.

Maybe Metz and Cook, Donohoe and Voumard should remember what Grandma used to say — handsome is as handsome does ... you can't judge a book by its cover.

And speaking of handsome, does anyone remember that Good Ol' Boy Warren G. Harding? Wouldn't that old runder have looked great on the tube? Presidential all the way, huh?

If any of the candidates can eventually work themselves through the eternal and expected platitudes and get down to business, I'm more interested in what they may have to say.

Let's hope they have something better to offer than, say, Calvin Coolidge, of whom Will Rogers once said "Coolidge didn't say much, and when he did, he didn't say much."

Letters

Safety of people, city comes first

TO THE EDITOR:

In a recent newspaper article, Mayor Vance Cruse said that he, the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce feel that the hazardous-waste plant would be good for our community.

In this article, he said it would bring 150 jobs to our town, while in a letter to the editor, the Bureau of Farmland Protection, Mayor Cruse said it would bring only 50. Which is it?

Mayor Cruse said in an out-of-town paper, "I think some of these goofy people who are trying to get media attention know very little." He said he didn't know much, but he knew more than the people.

What a shame, mayor, that you and the Council didn't take time or care to know every possible effect the hazardous-waste plant would have on our town.

Well, mayor, I am one of those goofy people and there are many more of us who believe you are wrong about this plant.

What are 50 jobs worth when it could affect the well-being of thousands? To you, everyone in this town is "goofy" except you and, of course, Mr. Hanke, who says "We all had our heads in the sand."

For once, why don't you try thinking of grandchildren instead of yourself and 50 jobs that could be a deadly hazard to all of us. We don't want this plant in Granite City and I, for one, will keep working to stop it from coming here.

Rights Action League, NARAL.

First, the phrase "codify Roe" is misleading. In plain language, the bill would invalidate virtually any barriers to abortion, direct or indirect.

In an unguarded moment, U.S. Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., prime sponsor of FOCA, acknowledged it was radical in nature.

Also, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, told reporters he had "serious reservations" about FOCA, calling it "a very dangerous precedent."

Isn't it time that women in politics, promoting abortion, rethink their position?

We do remember that it is God who made the choice in the value of every life, even the little life that is a temporary resident in the womb and unable to make a choice.

Justice needed

TO THE EDITOR:

I think it is time to set the record straight on the justice system in Madison County.

As long as we have Mr. Haine (as state's attorney), there will be none. All he wants to do is seek the limelight in the media and not do his job as prosecutor.

If he would mess up both cases that I have had since he has been in office and all attempts to have them make them pay back over the taxpayers.

Let's get justice, we should get rid of Mr. Haine and the office.

There is no justice in this county except for thieves as long as this justice system is allowed to run over the taxpayers who pay officials' large salaries.

Let's get together and nuke back our county.

TO THE EDITOR:

With election results in the news, I'd like to see a debate on various issues at stake, could we, for lack of information, vote against our preference?

One example is the "Freedom of Choice Act" (FOCA), (H.R. 25, S. 25), a bill to prohibit limits on abortion. This is an ominous goal of the National Abortion

Method for all to aid homeless

TO THE EDITOR:

Job layoffs, unexpected medical bills, home fires or even one late paycheck are enough to leave many people destitute and out on the streets.

There are 50,000 persons, 30 percent of whom are children, are homeless in Illinois over the course of a year.

The Homeless Assistance Fund gives citizens a way to help.

Illinois taxpayers may write in a donation of $1 or more to the Homeless Assistance Fund on Line 15d of their 1991 Illinois income tax form.

Contributions are either deducted from tax refunds or added to taxes owed. More than 22,000 Illinoisans have donated over $500,000 since the fund began two years ago.

The money raised helps support local agencies that provide food, shelter and services to help people who are homeless get on their feet and into permanent housing.

Even a $1 donation, in these times of economic difficulty, can help turn around the life of someone without a home.

I encourage all Illinois taxpayers to give generously.

PHIL BRADLEY, Director
Department of Public Aid

For a good cause

TO THE EDITOR:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have contributed in our form or another to the Torrie Henderson benefit dance and chicken dinner.

The response to our efforts has been way beyond our expectations. It has been truly heart-warming to see our community come to the aid of this little girl.

Let's hope we had contributions made from local businesses, but the community at large has donated to this worthy cause.

When the United Steelworkers of America Local 16, 30, 67 and 68 and the Granite City Fire-fighters Local 253 endorsed our effort, we never dreamed things would turn out so well for us.

There are so many people who have helped us with this that we want all of Granite City to know about it. So, to all who have donated to this effort, our hats are off to you.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Anna Michels celebrates 88th birthday

Maxine Green

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Nameoki Township area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 901-6256.

Anna Michels celebrated her 88th birthday with her family Sunday, March 8, in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray (Josephine) Uram. Dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. James (Mill) Stoffer of Peoria. Mrs. Stoffer is a younger daughter of Mrs. Michels. Also Dr. John J. Uram, Mary Uram and Stephen Uram of Granite City, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Uram of Glen Carbon, Mrs. Ann Marie Maassen, granddaughter of Mrs. Michels, who is vacationing with her parents, Ray and Josephine Uram, and her husband, Dr. Gary Maassen, who is stationed at Lakenheath Air Force Base near London, England. Mrs. Michels also received greetings from four grandsons and their families in Colorado who couldn't attend. They included Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stoffer and daughters, Mr. Steven Stoffer, Mr. Dan Stoffer and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Stoffer.

Mrs. Michels was honored with a surprise birthday party on March 10, hosted by Josephine and Mary Uram and Ann Marie Maassen. Birthdays cake and refreshments were served to Mary Rita Ahlers, Margaret Crawshaw, Winnie Kelly, Anna Kuzma, LaVeda Lessig, Veda Norton, Mary Radick, Clea Siert and Elaine Zelenka of Granite City and Hilda Fort and Stephanie Milkovich of Glen Carbon.

The newly formed "Christian Singles" met Tuesday evening in the recreation area of the Mount Zion Church on Mockingbird Lane, and enjoyed a pot luck and corn-beef-cabbage dinner. There were 41 members present. Olive Joyner prepared the cabbage and was assisted during the meeting by the other two co-ordinators, Madge Boone and Helen Nance. Secretary Vicki Elmore read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasury report was given by Vera Kirkpatrick. Music was supplied by the Joyful Noiseband from the Assembly of God Church, 24th and Grand Avenue. Mrs. Spalding played the piano, and all joined in a sing-along. Earl Spalding presented a reading. The next meeting will be on the third Tuesday, April 21, at the Mount Zion Church.

Paramedics star in emergency situations

The Star of Life can be seen on the windows of local ambulances manned by paramedics, men and women who are the stars of many life-saving missions. The star is a blue decal consisting of six blunt points centered by a snake entwined staff signifying Aesculapius, the Greek god of medicine. Each point symbolizes one aspect of a paramedic's job.

These include: the ability to check a sudden illness or injury, report it, respond to the emergency, provide on-scene care, supply care in transit, and transfer the patient to providers of definitive medical care.

While people see this symbol every day on the outside of an ambulance window, it does not by itself explain the dedication of the people on the other side of the window.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center's paramedic system has two main providers: the Granite City Fire Department and the Campbell's Superior Ambulance Service in Madison. Each has specified areas of coverage and the two assist each other when needed.

If it's Friday, it's grass and brass. "We have basic chores each day of the week," said Rick Gaines, firefighter/paramedic. "After all, this is home a lot of the time for us. Today, it's cut the grass and polish the brass poles in the bay."

"Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, we do household chores and restrooms; Thursdays, windows; and Saturday is floor day. In addition, we maintain our vehicles every day."

Jeff LaPeire, Gaines' partner for this shift, mows grass in front of the station. Gaines, a 14-year ambulance service veteran, explains his life as a paramedic since Granite City combined the job of firefighter with paramedic about five years ago. Anyone hired as a firefighter must train to reach firefighter II and paramedic status within two years.

He began as an emergency medical technician (EMT) in 1977. An EMT may assess patients, perform basic trauma management, deal with medical and obstetrical emergencies and make psychological interventions.

For the past seven years, Gaines has been a paramedic, assuming responsibility for patient care. Paramedics are capable of advanced life-support measures such as assessment and evaluation of cardiac dysfunctions and interpretation of irregularities of the heart displayed on a heart monitor. They must understand emergency drug therapy and its administration during life-threatening situations. "We work 24 hours on duty and have 48 hours off," Gaines said.

"Five firefighters and two firefighter/paramedics are on duty each shift at Station 1, on Madison Avenue. Granite has two firefighters, and Station 3, on Johnson Road, has four men — a captain, an engineer, an EMT paramedic/firefighter and an EMT." There are about 38,000 people in the Granite City coverage area and 57 men, plus the chief, at the fire department.

In a typical day, if there is one, chores will be done by 11 a.m. Time after lunch is reserved for training, depending on the number of calls they receive.

Sitting in the back of their ambulance, 4-Adam 37, Gaines talked about his job as a paramedic.

"There are times when you know you make the difference," Gaines said. "When someone has 'coded' and you revive them, that's the difference between life and death."

LaPeire said he stays with his profession for the excitement. "I like the different situations we get," he said. "The rewards are really great. When I know I am responsible for saving a life, well, it's a feeling I just can't describe."

"Being a paramedic is a mental challenge," LaPeire said. "You're administering drugs, and it's more human caring. On the other hand, a firefighter has a more physical challenge and it's very exhausting."

"Mostly, I do this work because of the look I get from the victim when I come upon a scene. It's a 'reaching out for help' look."

For LaPeire, the worst calls are those involving children. "When it's a kid that is hurt, it's rough," he said. "Their injuries go right to your heart."

After lunch, they get their first call of the day. An ambulance is needed for a patient in a diabetic coma. "It's a kid that is in this house six or eight times," LaPeire said. "This man is a serious diabetic who doesn't take care of himself. He goes into a coma, and get there, get him going again, and after a few weeks or maybe months, we get another call. The patient is lying on the bedroom floor when Gaines and LaPeire arrive. He is conscious, but delirious. The paramedics start their work. They draw blood for a sugar count, and start an IV (intravenous). They apply a cardiac monitor and ready him for transport.

At the SEMC Emergency Room, the paramedics give the doctor a rundown on the care they provided the patient at the scene and during transport. They finish paperwork and check the ambulance's supplies.

Back at the station, some of the firefighters are taking an exam while others discuss calls.

At 3:50 p.m. another call comes in. "Let's go," LaPeire said. "A pedestrian has been hit by a car."

LaPeire is driving the ambulance. His radio blasts while he puts on his surgical gloves. Adrenaline pumps in the paramedics' veins.

Arriving on the scene less than two minutes from the call, Gaines and LaPeire jump from the ambulance to assess the situation. Neither says a word; they go right to work on the patient.

She apparently had been crossing the road when a pickup truck hit her. Black skid marks lead the way to the brown and tan steel mass. A crumpled body lies about six feet in front of the truck.

Gaines works on the woman's head injury while LaPeire splints her leg. She is conscious, and in a lot of pain. Gaines applies pressure to her head wound to stop the bleeding. LaPeire gives urgent directions to police officers and other paramedics who seem to come out of nowhere.

Each works on the woman with a specific job, but no one needs to be told what to do. It is as if they have done it. (See PARAMEDICS, Page 7A)

YOUTH FOCUS: What makes a person cool?

(Asked of students at Venice Public School, Madison Middle School and Coolidge Junior High School.)

Chappelle Gray, Venice

"What makes a person cool to some people is selling drugs or using them, but to me if you have a nice personality, a good reputation and get along with everyone, that's what makes a person cool to me."

Lakisha Williams, Venice

"I think what makes a person cool is the way they act. Some people think being cool is selling drugs or taking them. But I think if you have a nice personality and be yourself and don't change your ways for anyone, then you can be the most cool person in the world. That's what makes a person cool to me."

Charlie Johnson, Venice

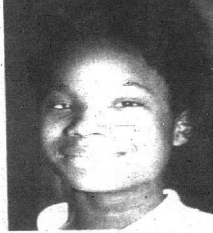

"To be cool you have to be yourself and stay in school. Some people will say you are stupid because you're not so cool. A lot of people say to be cool you have to be rude, like smoking and drinking in the boys' room. That's not being cool. To be you cool you don't have to do the things that you don't like. Some people think they're cool because they hang around the people who think they are hip and cool because they have style clothing, shoes, coats and slacks. That's not all of being cool. If you want to be cool stay in school. Staying in school is the rule, so be cool."

Lakisha Williams, Venice
"It makes a person cool to stay in school and stay off drugs. It also makes a person cool to not talk about other people or do them wrong. To not talk about people or tell something their friends told them not to."

Nikya Bowers, Venice
"There are two ways to make a person cool. One way is to have central air, and a cold glass of water. The other way is if a person has a good personality, cares about their outer appearance and loves their self for what they are and who they are."

Anna Ross, Granite City
"What makes a person cool is not what he or she wears or how much money he or she has. What makes a person cool is how he or she acts towards other people. The way a person treats somebody and his or her feelings is really important. A person's manners are important too. If someone burps all the time and never says 'excuse me,' that is not cool. The way cool people talk to other people is nicely and mannerly. Having a good attitude and playing fair is always cool. The most important one of them all is to stay in school and stay away from drugs because making good grades is always cool. Once a person makes good grades, it's always easier to get a good college education. Those are all the ways that make a person cool."

Jennifer Brown, Granite City
"What makes a person cool? Is it someone, a bully, who is tough and mean? I don't think so. A cool person is sweet and kind. It's someone who is willing to help anyone at anytime. It's a good student in many activities. Are you any of those things? If so, you could be cool."

Jessica Maykopet, Granite City
"What makes kids cool? One thing that makes a person cool is responsibility at home and at school. I know a person likes to have fun, but he or she has to be responsible. Anyone can have fun and be responsible at the same time. Another way to be cool is to be friendly to everyone. If a person is friendly to everyone, everyone will like him or her. Another thing that makes kids cool is fashion. Fashion is what they like, and what they are comfortable with. If they like what they are wearing, they are cool. Doing homework and staying out of trouble is also very cool. Kids who don't do homework, get in trouble and they might get detention. While they are in detention, everyone else is out having fun. Sitting in the cafeteria and looking at the floor is very boring, not cool! If people do these things, I promise they will be cool."

Jamie Wood, Granite City
"How to be cool? I think that to be cool, you have to be normal. I ask people why they act so stupidly. They usually say that they are trying to be cool. People who act like other people are not cool. They are stupid people. I think that to be cool, you should be your normal self. That is the way to be cool."

Chamber style show April 4 at Sunset Hills

Spring is here and the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Women's Division is sponsoring its seventh annual style show.

The event promises to offer the latest in spring fashions for women and children.

It will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 4, at the Sunset Hills Country Club, Edwardsville.

A breakfast buffet will be served first, followed by fashions from 10 area merchants.

The cost per person will be $12. Tickets are available at Tops 'n' Bottoms, 1343 19th St., American Family Kathy Goclan Agency, 3700 Nameoki Road, KokoMo Tans, 2126 Pontoon Road, Tri-Cities Area Chamber office, 1831 Delmar Ave., and Ann Patrice Shop, 112 West Main St., Collinsville.

Tickets can also be obtained from members of the Women's Division. Tables of eight can be reserved for groups.

Proceeds from the style show are used to support the Women's Division Christmas party for children and the division's beautification projects.

The featured commentator for this year's style show will be Skip Milhouser, a veteran of the fashion industry.

Musical selections will be provided by Valerie Stevens at the piano. The theme of this year's show is "Beauties and the Beast," with special entertainment planned by members of the Women's Division.

Nancy Sanders-Miles and Kathy Goclan are co-chairmen of this year's event and Linda Reich is the current president of the Women's Division.

Participating merchants for the 1992 style show are: Beams and Jeans, Cameo Coutures, Diane Melbyre, Glick's, KokoMo Tans, Libby's Bridal, Libby's Closet and Tops and Bottoms, all in Granite City; Inge's Bridal, Mary Ann Shop, and Sandy's and Ann Patrice Shop in Collinsville.

clothes you wear or how tough you are, but how well you take care of yourself and, of course, your personality. Some of the other things that make a person cool is earning good grades, staying away from drugs, and helping your friends and family in their time of need. This is my idea of what makes a person cool."

Beth Feenstra, Granite City
"Being yourself is what makes a person cool. If you like or think you're cool, then other people will think that you are cool. People are cool in their own ways. It's not your hair or your clothes or where you shop. So don't think that you have to go out and dress a certain way or get a hair cut, just to be cool. Be yourself and you'll come across with flying colors and that's what makes a person cool."

Eric Wilkerson, Granite City
"A person is cool if he or she can be trusted not to talk behind your back, or make up lies about you, or make them feel or look better. A person would be considered by me to be cool if he or she tries to dress right even though they don't have name brand clothes. Another thing that would make a person cool is being able to forgive others when they make mistakes and realizing they can make errors, too. What would make a person especially cool is being able to show they care for other human beings by being helpful and kind. That's what being cool means to me."

Samantha Nelson, Madison
"What makes a person 'cool' is the way he or she dresses. The way that a person acts. The kind of hair style that a person wears. The kind of crowd the person hangs out with, and the way a person reacts around others."

Latoya Cureton Crader, Madison
"What makes a person cool is his/her reputation. If a person's got a bad reputation then people will think bad of them. The way a person dresses makes him/her cool also. The way that person acts makes him/her cool too. So remember your attitude, the way you dress, and your reputation makes you cool!"

Ronata Johnson, Madison
"When a person wants to be cool, they are supposed to dress up in fancy clothes. They also have to look good. They are not supposed to take or sell drugs. They are supposed to have good parents. They don't have to be rich. Most of all they need to have a great body and personality."

Jennifer Rhodes, Madison
"What makes a person 'cool' is to be cool a person doesn't have to sell drugs or have sex. A person can be cool by doing the right thing. If you dress nice, and you are clean, that's cool. If you have a lot of good friends, that's cool. You don't have to do what someone else is doing to be cool. You don't have to do drugs, steal, or drink alcohol to be cool. Just be yourself then you'll be known as one cool person."

Jamie Murray, Madison
"A person may be called 'cool' because they are popular, they get along with just about everybody. Some people think the way you dress makes you 'cool'. There is really no definition; you have to come up with your own."

Paramedics

all before, millions of times.

They work well together. In the ambulance, Gaines makes contact with personnel in ER on the patient's condition. LaPeire comforts the woman. Not realizing they are trying to help her, she kicks and tries to take off the neck brace.

"This is common with head injuries," Gaines said. "She has no idea what she is doing or saying right now."

He continues to calm her during transportation to the medical center.

In the ER, the doctor takes over her care. The paramedics complete their paperwork and start back to the first station.

Leaving the ER, they notice the diabetic patient from the first call of the day wheeling himself out of one of the trauma rooms in a wheelchair.

He enters the hallway searching for a telephone. Once again he is back to normal, ready to go home from the medical center.

Saturday, 7:45 a.m. It's time for a shift change at Campbell's Ambulance Service.

Paramedic David Hoffman checks ambulance 60 for supplies.

He opens each cabinet, making sure equipment has been replaced and is in working order. He changes batteries in the cardiac monitor, and then goes inside the station for replacement tubing for the suction machine.

Inside, paramedic Lisa Fisk and Ron Hawthorne, EMT for 17 months, discuss overnight calls with EMTs Karen Carroll and Ron Rogers, who are just coming off duty.

Campbell's is the largest private ambulance service in Southern Illinois. It has bases in Centralia, Salem, Springfield, Jacksonville, Peoria and Pekin, in addition to Alton and Madison in Madison County.

The Madison station has two ambulances manned by four emergency medical services personnel daily. One is a basic life support unit (BLS) and the other is an advanced life support unit (ALS).

EMTs staff a BLS unit, which may check vital signs and initiate cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). In an ALS, paramedics can administer medications.

In the Madison station, there are eight full-time and three part-time personnel who cover Madison, Venice, Brooklyn, Mitchell, Pontoon Beach and Nameoki and Chouteau townships, a population of about 27,000.

They also transport residents of nursing homes in Edwardsville, Collinsville, Maryville and Caseyville to area hospitals when needed.

At 9:50 a.m. they get their first call.

Two minutes later, they arrive at the home of a woman who may be having congestive heart failure. Fisk grabs the ambulance's cardiac monitor and enters the house.

Once inside, Hawthorne asks the woman about her medical history and symptoms. The patient is conscious, but is having difficulty breathing.

Another call comes over the radio and Carroll and Hawthorne leave in the BLS unit. Hoffman and Fisk get the woman ready for transport. Fisk drives while Hoffman calls the Emergency Room with a condition report.

With orders from the ER doctor, Hoffman starts an IV with medication to help get the fluid out of the patient's lungs, lower her blood pressure and make it easier for her to breathe.

At the medical center, Hoffman updates Dr. Larry Harmon on the woman's condition and then completes paperwork on the call.

On the way out of the ER, they meet Hawthorne and Carroll bringing in a man whose leg is numb. He was treated three weeks ago for a gunshot wound, and they believe the numbness is due to that injury.

Back at the station, Hoffman explains why being able to help someone else is important to him.

He was an EMT for four years, and a paramedic for the past two. He left Campbell's for a job at another hospital and then later became personnel manager at a steel company.

"But I can't leave here," Hoffman said. "There's something about it, the excitement, adventure."

"You never know what's coming. One day you can come in for 24 hours of nothing, not even one call. But other days you work 24 hours of back-to-back calls."

"There's something about knowing you saved a little kid's life that makes you feel great."

After Fisk's first day as an EMT, she was ready to quit.

Last October she received her paramedic license, which made her the first woman paramedic in the SEMC system.

"My first day, we went to a traffic accident where the driver and car burned. I had to load him into the ambulance," she said.

I wanted to quit after that. I kept asking myself why am I doing this? Then the next week I found out, I delivered a baby, and that's when I knew it was worth it."

Sunday afternoon. The scanner is on continuously at the station — like a background music — morning, noon and night.

Just as it seems they are becoming oblivious to its noise, everyone stops what they are doing and listens attentively.

There has been a traffic accident. Members from the Mitchell Fire Department are at the scene.

Campbell's personnel listen for a report of injuries. The firefighters put the Area Rescue Consortium of Hospitals (ARCH) helicopter on stand-by.

"This helicopter is called when injuries are very bad and it is urgent the patient reach a hospital quickly," Hoffman said.

"ARCH nurses are trained in trauma and triage."

On the radio, the fire department's BLS unit called for assistance from an ALS unit. That was Campbell's.

Arriving on the scene, Hoffman assesses the situation. It looks as if the driver of the car lost control and went over a bank into the ditch.

A man, who has been removed from the car, is lying on the ground by the passenger door of the car. A woman is still in the passenger side, stretched over the seat.

Firefighters call the paramedics over to assist with the man. They use the suction machine for a laceration on his lower lip, apply the cardiac monitor and start two large-bore IVs on the patient.

The chopper touches down within seconds and nurses run over to check the situation. The paramedics update them on his condition and help load the man into the helicopter.

Back at the scene, they check the woman's condition. They help load her into the fire department's ambulance for transportation to the medical center and then head back to the station.

A paramedic's care is more than just performing the six functions symbolized in the Star of Life.

It is arriving at the scene quickly, or a consoling look from caregiver to patient. But even more, it is a comforting hand holding the patient's at the scene of an accident.

In emergency situations, care like this is provided by the local area paramedics. They help the nursing and medical staff at SEMC provide better care to patients.

State officeholders put stamp of approval on younger Elvis Illinois executive branch officials have voted their choice for an Elvis stamp. Love him slender.

"The treasurer votes for the younger one. That's how he remembers Elvis best," said Marj Halperin, public information officer for Treasurer Patrick Quinn.

Trying to get to the bottom of a debate begun by the U.S. Postal Service, The Alton Telegraph conducted an informal poll among state officials to see how the king of rock 'n' roll should be pictured on a commemorative stamp planned in 1993.

One design features a thin, 1950s Elvis, while another shows a broader, more indulging Elvis of the 1970s.

Two of three willing officials in the executive arm of government said a stamp depicting a pudgy, mellow Elvis would be too cruel. The slick, svelte rock star should live in postal eternity, they said.

Gov. Jim Edgar, who has a hairstyle most similar to Elvis' among executives, opted for the younger stamp.

"He" prefers to remember (Elvis) the way he looked when he first became a sensation," spokesman Michael Lawrence said.

Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra did nothing to tip the scales and lick the problem.

"He just told me he doesn't have an opinion on it," said Jim Bray, Kustra's chief of staff.

Comptroller Dawn Clark Niesch cast the only vote for the contemporary Elvis.

"She went for the most recent Elvis — the fatter Elvis," said Rick Davis, communications director.

The executives didn't mention whether they will vote, but all will get a chance starting April 6, when nearly 5 million postcards, with both images, will be available free in post offices nationwide.

The cards are to be filled out and returned before April 24, and the public's choice will be announced in May.

The poll seemed to have left some officials all shook up. Of the remaining two executives, Attorney General Roland Burris' communications people didn't return calls in time, and Secretary of State George Ryan evidently was not clear of the poll.

"What do you think he uses a lot of stamps or something?" said Mike Murphy, communications director for Ryan. "I don't get it."

Red Cross to mark 75 years of service

During 1992, the Tri-City Chapter of the American National Red Cross will celebrate a milestone, the 75th anniversary of the chartering of the chapter.

On July 31, 1917, the local community was chartered to carry out the mission and services of the Red Cross.

In honor of this occasion, a plaque will be placed in the Tri-City Chapter office, bearing the names of donors who give $75 or more during the Red Cross membership campaign.

Many chapters throughout the nation will be celebrating similar anniversaries. In 1917, the number of Red Cross chapters across the United States grew from 267 in February to 3,287 by November of the same year.

National adult enrollment reached 20,390,173.

It is recorded that, in World War I, the chapters turned out 23,000,000 articles for soldiers and sailors; 14,000,000 items of hospital supplies; 6,000,000 refugee garments; and 300,000,000 surgical dressings.

A total of 15,000,000 pounds of wool went into articles knitted by Red Cross volunteers. And there are records of millions of meals served, cups of coffee handed out, etc.

It is also recorded that Red Cross chapters purchased $61,000,000 worth of raw materials and turned it into $94,000,000 worth of finished products.

President George Bush proclaimed March as American Red Cross Month. Across the nation, many Red Cross units will focus attention on the humanitarian objectives of the organization and the services it provides.

It will also be a time to thank the public and recognize the people who are the heart and soul of the organization. These are what the Red Cross refers to as the team players — blood donors, volunteer, friends, financial supporters.

In 1991, the local Red Cross team assisted 35 families with food, shelter, and clothing after they had lost their homes to fires. More than 140 families who have loved ones in the armed forces were comforted by a message that was sent to that serviceman during a family emergency.

Victims of accidents or disease received one or more of the 1,639 units of blood donated by team members throughout the area at local blood drives.

And more than 550 individuals were trained in CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) and first aid by other Red Cross team members, to help unsuspecting victims in an emergency.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt first proclaimed March as Red Cross Membership Enrollment Month, in 1943, its purpose was to campaign for members and funds. A massive funding campaign was needed then to meet the demands of a wartime service program.

From 1941 to 1945, $666 million was raised, and a total of 36 million Red Cross members were enrolled.

Even though the Red Cross has different levels of giving, enrollment in the Red Cross today costs the same as in 1943, $1 or more.

The Tri-City Chapter is conducting a membership campaign to give members of the community an opportunity to support the program through a financial contribution or by making a commitment to volunteer during the year.

A spokesman said, "The Tri-City Chapter has a heritage to be proud of, and we hope that our volunteers, friends, supporters, and each member of the community will join in helping us celebrate this occasion. The Red Cross has been serving this community for 75 years, thanks to you."

For more information concerning Red Cross services and volunteer opportunities or to make a donation to the Red Cross Membership Campaign, persons may call 452-7184.

Providence promotes Lepping

Ginny Lepping has been promoted from vice president of Providence Occupational Health Services to executive vice president and chief operating officer.

Lepping started the occupational health program in January 1981 and has been largely responsible for the development of Providence Occupational Health Services, considered the premier program of its type in the metropolitan St. Louis area. POHS is a for-profit company affiliated with the Sisters of Divine Providence and is part of St. Elizabeth Health Services.

Lepping completed her master's degree in health administration in the spring of 1990 and will complete her master's in business administration in May 1992.

She was elected to the American Board of Occupational Health Nurses in 1989 and is currently a director in her second term. She has won several awards for her professional publications on occupational health nursing and work hardening.

Lepping is a member of the International Commission on Occupational Health and has presented several research papers in Ireland, Sweden and Australia as well as the United States. "Her leadership and organizational skills have contributed significantly to the success of Providence Occupational Health Services," said Ted Eilerman, president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and a member of the board of directors for POHS.

Shop is recertified 'Gold Crown'

Jan's Hallmark Shop, Crossroads Plaza, Granite City, has been awarded an engraved plaque in recognition of the store's continuing high level of retailing excellence as a Hallmark Gold Crown store.

The award was made following a recertification visit by the sales management staff of the Hallmark Marketing Corp., a subsidiary of Hallmark Cards Inc., Kansas City, Mo.

Hallmark Gold Crown stores are evaluated annually and must meet high standards to be Gold Crown. This is the sixth year that Jan's Hallmark Shop has been awarded Gold Crown status since the retailing excellence program began in 1986.

While stores are evaluated on a number of business criteria, the emphasis on high-quality retailing and product offerings ultimately benefits the customer, according to Don Tschannen, owner of Jan's Hallmark Shop.

The Gold Crown emblem indicates exclusive products, superior store environment and outstanding service. Gold Crown stores feature the Hallmark brand and reflect a quality image, considered especially important to today's shopper.

Record Bankmate ATM growth

The BankMate Midwest shared automatic teller machine network experienced record growth during 1991. Transaction volume increased 28 percent, from 11,543,000 in 1990 to a new high of 15,924,000 in 1991, and the number of subscribing financial institutions increased 15 percent over the same period, from 453 to 521.

The number of participating ATMs increased by 10 percent, from 1,889 in 1990 to a record 2,056 last year.

The BankMate system serves Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Kentucky. The network began operation in 1984 and today has over 5.5 million cardholders in the shared program.

In addition to extensive regional ATM penetration, BankMate cardholders have access to retail purchases at thousands of point-of-sale transaction terminals throughout the Midwest, including 95 percent of grocery store market share in the St. Louis area. The system also has growing acceptance in Kansas City's grocery store market.

Magna reports year-end earnings

Magna Group Inc., a St. Louis-based bank holding company, has reported net income of $3.8 million, or 28 cents per share, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1991, compared with $18.1 million or $1.31 in 1990.

The fourth-quarter 1991 loss was $6.4 million, or 45 cents per share, compared with earnings of $4.9 million or 35 cents in the comparable 1990 period.

Commenting on the results, William S. Badgley, chairman and chief executive officer, noted, "Although an increase in the provision for loan losses to $29.5 million from $10.9 million lowered earnings per share by 92 cents, operating performance remained strong. The net interest margin rose by 13 basis points during this period of declining interest rates, contributing to a 2.3 percent gain in net interest income."

Operating expenses, excluding the one-time expense of the Enhanced Retirement Incentive Plan in 1990, were up only $1.4 million, or 1.8 percent, in spite of a $1.6 million increase in FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.) premiums in 1991.

"The strength of our banking operations, the opportunities presented by the acquisition of Landmark Bancshares, and the stronger base provided by our actions in 1991, set the stage for us to generate a return on stockholders' equity that exceeds what we could have expected to achieve on a stand-alone basis," Badgley said.

"In keeping with that outlook, we have targeted a return-on-assets goal of 1.05 percent and a return-on-equity goal of 14.50 percent by year-end 1994."

Lane joins medical staff here

Charles Allen Lane, MD, general and vascular surgeon, recently joined the medical staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Lane is an associate with general and vascular surgeon John Petrovich, MD.

Lane received his medical degree in 1984 at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Peoria. He completed his residency in general and vascular surgery in 1989 at Jewish Hospital of St. Louis in the Washington University School of Medicine.

"I am excited about joining the medical staff at St. Elizabeth. I think it is a very enthusiastic group, and the facility is excellent," Lane said. Before joining SEMC, Lane practiced with a group of 25 multispecialists in Hannibal, Mo. While in Hannibal, he was chair of the cancer registry sponsored by the American College of Surgeons.

He also wrote a protocol for intravenous nutrition.

"I specialize in abdominal and oncology surgeries. I also have been specially trained in performing laparoscopic cholecystectomies," he said.

"My objective is to emphasize patient education. From what I have seen, the staff at SEMC works closely to both educate and reassure patients."

Charles Lane

David Romoser

Romoser named Smith executive

David Romoser has been elected vice president, secretary and general counsel of A.O. Smith Corporation.

Prior to joining A.O. Smith, Romoser, 48, served as vice president, general counsel and secretary of Amsted Industries Inc. of Chicago. He joined Amsted in 1975 as a general attorney and was named general counsel in 1981. He assumed the position of vice president, general counsel and secretary in 1988.

Romoser is a member of the American Corporate Counsel Association, the American Society of Corporate Secretaries and the Chicago Bar Association.

He has served as vice president and director of the Chicago Crime Commission, as co-chairman of the Illinois Product Liability Project and as a council member of manufacturers' Alliance for Productivity and Innovation.

New air conditioner marketed by Comfort

A new air conditioner designed by Lennox Industries Inc. will be marketed through Comfort Air Conditioning and Heating of Granite City and Collinsville and other independent Lennox dealerships internationally.

The HS24 is specifically designed to exceed the new energy standards for 1992. For homeowners, this translates into savings on energy bills, a spokesman said.

Faced with growing energy demands and limited resources nationwide, the U.S. government enacted the National Appliance Conservation Act (NAECA). This legislation set minimum efficiency standards for all residential air conditioners and furnaces.

Every HS24 is tested at Lennox' Research and Development Laboratory. Lennox offers a five-year limited warranty on the HS24.

Consumers wanting more information about Lennox' HS24 air conditioner or Lennox furnaces can contact Comfort Air Conditioning and Heating, located in Granite City and Collinsville.

Comfort Air Conditioning and Heating was established in 1957 and services the Granite City and Collinsville areas.

Placement exams at GCHS

In May 1992, the Advanced Placement Exams will be given at Granite City Senior High School in fifteen different subjects: Art, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Economics, English, French, German, Government, History, Latin, Mathematics, Music, Physics, and Spanish.

Cost of each exam is $65. The advantages of taking the AP Exams include:

- Exemption by college from beginning courses and permission to take higher-level courses in certain fields.
- Academic College credit awarded for exams taken.
- Tuition savings — up to a year of credit may be given for three or more qualifying AP grades.
- Eligibility for honors and other special programs to students who have received AP recognition.
- Time to explore undergraduate subject areas that you wouldn't otherwise be able to study.

Fee reductions are available for academically talented students from low income families. Interested students should register for the AP Exams with the Guidance Secretary at GCHS before March 27. For additional information, contact Sonya Aderson, Guidance Coordinator at GCHS, 451-5808.

Trio Unit hears of water quality

The Trio Unit of Madison County Homemakers Extension held its regular meeting March 3 at Hope Lutheran Church.

A very interesting lesson on "Drinking Water Quality" was given by Pat Mitchell and Helen Robertson. Water is essential to human health. Everyone drinks water; it is essential to the function of the human body. Ninety five percent of rural and more than 90 percent of urban residents depend on ground water. Every year 3.5 to 21 million pounds of pesticides reach ground water. Lawn fertilizers, bug sprays, waste motor oil account for a large portion of contaminants. Household cleaning supplies and even salt used on the highways cause water pollution.

The next meeting will be held on April 7 at noon. Our lesson will be on "Baking with Quilts."

Southwest District meeting will be held May 6 at Brenda's Steakhouse at 10 a.m. The speaker for the day will be Bennett Bass from Springfield, Ill.

The membership drive will run through April 30. Marliou Lybarger gave an interesting report on "Antique Quilts and Preserving Them." Quilts need to be displayed with care and needs to rest every six months. If you use quilts for table covers, be sure you do not place them directly on the wood, they are vulnerable to wood acids.

A delicious luncheon was served by Lucille Sackett; Lorna Benson, Ivan Graklanoff and Alice Pirovender to 39 members and two guests, Ruth Buer and Dorothy Parkinson.

Mark 11:23 "... He shall have whatsoever he saith."

Jesus surely wanted to teach us about the power of believing prayer. He said, "Whoever shall say and not doubt, he shall have WHAT SO EVER he saith."

Whoever means YOU! You can pray and get results. Jesus said you could. And the more critical your situation, the more amazing the answers to your prayers.

Whatsoever means exactly that! God can do anything. He can solve your problems. He can heal your body. He can forgive your sins! On and on it goes. Whatsoever need you have.

Why not try prayer today? Find yourself a quiet place. Bow your head and pray out loud. Talk to God just as you would a friend. You can have what you say. Today.

Balen to head Beta Eta Chapter

The February meeting of Beta Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International was held at the Collinsville Public Library. President Mary Sue Harper of Granite City conducted the business meeting.

Nominated as officers for the 1992-94 period were: Connie Balen of Granite City, president; Karen Landwehr of Collinsville, first vice president; Nancy Marti of Granite City, second vice president; Joan Gusewelle of East Alton, corresponding secretary; and Irene Orr of Madison, recording secretary.

Recommendations for new members were discussed and approved. The state convention will be held at the Marriott Pavilion Hotel in St. Louis on April 3-5.

All members were encouraged to attend.

Beta Eta members Martha Massa of Collinsville, Sandra DeMoulin of Edwardsville, Linda Koenig of Granite City, Mary Lee Muniz of Collinsville and Joyce Tracy of Granite City were recognized; they have been nominated by their school districts for the SUE Excellence in Education Award.

The program was presented by Sandra Dust of Collinsville, senior high school special education teacher in the Collinsville School District. Dust discussed the community-based program that she conducts for her students. She made special note of the assistance and cooperation she receives from her students' parents.

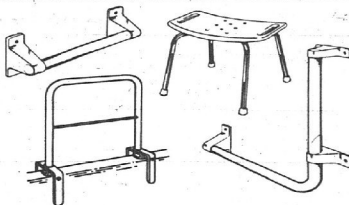

Church collects food for Moscow

On Sunday, March 1, the Nameoki Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road, collected flour, sugar, canned meats, pasta, dry milk, rice and various other commodities.

These food supplies will be shipped to Moscow as part of an inter-faith outreach to help the hungry citizens of Moscow.

This is one phase of the Church's commitment to help in the struggle against hunger. The members are actively involved in 2 cents a meal which sets aside money for infants and children, one meal a month that will become a part of the Metro Area fight to stock food pantries, one great hour of sharing that is a part of the Presbyterian Church campaign for the self development of people and crisis intervention around the world and a food crisis program to benefit the Granite City Community," said the Rev. Vicki Harden-Evans.

worship at 10:45 a.m. The After-Glow with prayer and share will be at 6 p.m. Sunday evening. The nursery will be open throughout the weekend and anyone needing transportation may call Ben Frost at 931-5158.

Lay Renewal prayer meetings were held in the home of Bob and Linda French on Monday and in the home of Blaine and Betty Barr Tuesday, and regular service was held Wednesday in the church.

A family reunion was held over the weekend in the home of Linda and Don Boswell. All seven children, spouses and seven grandchildren attended the first time together in Pontoon in 12 years. Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Craig Delora Grammer and Kelly Mack of Rex, Ga.; Dean and Joe Boswell, who are on spring break from Lake City School, Lake City, Ga.; Lisa Hartung of Arcade, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin (Kims) Heberlein and David Mack. Grandchildren present were Becky and Deanna Grammer Jill and Korie Hartung and Amber, Lindsey and Allison Heberlein. The highlight of the weekend was getting a family portrait made.

Junior Achievers are learning business world

Patricia A. Klossner, senior vice president, Junior Achievement of Mississippi Valley, spoke to Granite City Rotarians on the impact of JA in this area.

More than 1,200 Quad City area young people currently are involved in programs of Junior Achievement, she said.

For more than 30 years, JA has brought local business and education closer together. JA seeks to provide the highest quality of economic education to students in grades six through 12.

Programs offered are: JA — High school students form mini-corporations. They sell stock, elect officers, produce and market products or services and liquidate (usually returning a profit), all in about 15 weeks.

Project Business: An economic awareness program, it supplements an 8th/9th grade social studies class with lively discussions, activities and specialized materials.

Economics of Staying in School — This junior high program is designed to help students understand the importance of education and the personal and economic costs of not completing school.

Business Basics — It introduces youngsters in the 5th/6th

Obituaries

12:05 p.m. Saturday, March 21, 1992, at St. Louis Children's Hospital in St. Louis.

Timothy was born March 20, 1962, at Jewish Hospital in St. Louis. Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers, Ryan Cook, Christopher Cook and Andrew Cook, all of St. Louis; his paternal grandparents, Edward and Dixie Cook of Glen Carbon; maternal grandparents, Richard and Carol Dill of Bridgeton, Mo.; paternal great-grandparents, Milton and Anne Haley of Granite City; and maternal great-grandmother, Margaret Bruns of Shawnee, Ill.

There will be no visitation. Graveside services are pending at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville, with the Revs. William Jones and John Calvin officiating.

Irwin Chapel in Granite City is in charge of arrangements.

William Thomason

William E. Thomason, 66, of Granite City died at 9:40 p.m. Tuesday, March 24, 1992, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been ill for one year and a patient for 2½ weeks.

Born Dec. 27, 1925, in Chattanooga, Tenn., he was a lifelong resident of Granite City. Mr. Thomason was a taxi driver 25 years for the Yellow Cab Co.

A World War II Navy veteran, he was a member of Venice-Marx and American Legion Post 307. He was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include one son, Billy J. Thomason of Granite City; four daughters, Nancy J. Whitehead, Frances Thomason and Pam Benefield, all of Granite City; and Debbie Seats of Waterloo; his mother, Minnie Thomason of Granite City; and three sisters, Lucy Hoffman, Georgia Downs and Peggy Miller, all of Granite City.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Virginia (Hoffman) Thomason, whom he married May 10, 1947, and who died Feb. 26, 1992, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He is survived by his children, Herschel and Minnie (Lynch) Thomason; and one brother.

Visitation will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. today (Thursday) at Mercer Mortuary, 1416 Niedringhaus Ave., where services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday with the Rev. Tom Briley officiating. The funeral procession is to arrive at 11:30 a.m. Friday at Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery in St. Louis County for graveside services and burial.

Timothy Cook

Timothy Dill Cook, one-day-old infant son of Kevin and Nancy (Dill) Cook of St. Louis, died at and Robert W. Polley Jr. of Clearwater, Fla.; one daughter, Tracy Schreiber of Los Angeles; two brothers, Charles W. Polley of Granite City and Herbert E. Polley of Greenville; and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, James and Janet (Armour) Polley, and one brother, Richard Polley.

Visitation will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. today (Thursday) at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, Granite City, where services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, with the Rev. Vicki Harden-Evans officiating. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

Memorials are suggested for Nameoki Presbyterian Church or the Washington University School of Medicine.

Ira Carpenter

Ira "Ivory" Carpenter, 83, of Brooklyn died at 8:47 a.m. Friday, March 13, 1992, at his residence. Mr. Carpenter was born March 3, 1909, in Forest City, Ark., and had been a resident of the Metro East area for the past 30 years. He was employed as a dishwasher at the Anheuser-Busch brewery for about 20 years prior to retiring.

Survivors include his niece, Betty J. Carpenter of Chicago. Cremation services were held at Valhalla Crematory in St. Louis. Officer-Funeral Home, East St. Louis, had charge.

Sam Liddell

Sam Liddell, 89, of Brooklyn died at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, March 18, 1992, at Memorial Hospital, Belleville, where he had been a patient for one day.

Mr. Liddell was born Jan. 8, 1903, in Louisville, Miss., and had been a resident of the Metro East area for the past 37 years.

He was employed by the East Side Health District, East St. Louis, before retiring. He was a member of the Antioch Baptist Church, Brooklyn.

Survivors include two nieces, Lottie B. Fleming of East Moline and M.L. Shedd of East St. Louis, and one granddaughter.

The Moline School District consists of 8,426 students in one high school, two middle schools, 12 elementary schools and one special education center. The city, approximately 250 miles north of Granite City, has a population of about 48,000. Granite City schools have 8,200 students. There are nine elementary schools, two junior high schools and one high school. Hennegan has been the Moline superintendent since 1985. Walmsley has lived in Granite City for 36 years and began his career in District 9 in 1963 as an industrial arts teacher.

He became a guidance counselor in 1965 and the adult education supervisor in 1966. He was assistant principal of Granite City High School from 1967 until 1970, when he became principal of Prather Junior High. Walmsley was a board of education administrator in 1972-73, coordinating construction details, equipping and staffing related to the proposed Granite City High School North.

For a 10-year span, 1973-83, the district operated two high schools, North and the existing high school, named South. Walmsley was North's principal throughout that school's history.

He became principal of Granite City High School after the North-South merger in 1983. North then became the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

Walmsley was promoted to superintendent in 1986.

Doctor

"Most think that the whole bronchus goes into a spasm, but I say just the valve."

"Others have denied it because they haven't seen it."

"People who have seen them, have not seen them for what they are because they are not located at the typical place where valves are, such as the one in the throat and one in the stomach."

But wherever one unit meets the next unit, there is a valve, Baggot said, indicating that each person may have millions of valves. He has yet to find more than four or five in any individual, he said.

That these valves are hard to see may be partly due to the anesthesia and relaxation necessary for bronchoscopy, but more because patency (being open) is their common condition, Baggot said.

"These sphincters when I saw them were always puckered in the intermediate position, making them look like shrimp," Baggot said.

"I never saw a sphincter completely shut, which would lead to asphyxiation and death, and those completely open were invisible." Recognition of the valves following the long period of skepticism from various experts should advance therapy for respiratory and cardiac illness, he said.

"It should not be too long, because I'm systematic in getting my message out and followers are gradually accumulating."

"I have to be patient. A majority of other specialists don't agree yet, but they will have to."

assistant for secondary education, said.

Sikora said there are additional advantages associated with the program.

"It opens up a lot more opportunities to the students. We can plug our VCR (video cassette recorder) tapes into it and hook up with our vast collection of library tapes, such as National Geographic specials," he said.

Each school will receive a 12-meter satellite dish; a receiver/amplifier; two central VCRs; a 13-inch-screen preview television set; and 19-inch classroom color television sets, one for every 23 students, Sikora said.

All equipment is provided, serviced and maintained at no cost to the school district by the Whittle Education Network, a private firm that offers the Classroom Channel. It supplies 250 programs annually that are educational in form and can be used in individual classrooms, officials said. Each day's program contains two minutes of commercial time, which pays for the cost of the venture.

"Eighty-five percent of the commercials are concerning food items, and 15 percent are public information commercials," Sikora said.

"The commercials will not be found to be disturbing to students, parents or staff," he predicted.

Contract stipulations note the program must be viewed 90 percent of the days in any one school year.

It is also noted that principals have the opportunity to view each program before airing it and can cancel any program if they would find anything objectionable.

Guides listing the transmission dates and a description at each program are sent quarterly to the schools' media specialist or librarian.

"These programs can be viewed by select rooms and shut out of academic areas where they do not apply. However, we have found that most districts tape these programs and show them as they best fit into the curriculum. The tapes are then added to the library of district tapes," Sikora said.

There has been some opposition to the program and objections from parent-teacher groups. Superintendent of Schools Gib Walmsley said Tuesday night.

"But the PTA is coming around, and those who have witnessed and viewed the program have given endorsements," Walmsley said.

Each secondary principal presented the program to his faculty and solicited opinions.

Coolidge and Grigsby teachers voted unanimously in favor of Channel One, and there was unanimous approval among those high school teachers who viewed the program, Sikora said.

"We recognize that the adoption of Channel One in our school district may generate some controversy. However, we feel that the benefits far outweigh the criticisms," Sikora said. Channel One has been introduced into more than 10,000 secondary schools across the country, including the Madison school district.

planning commission staff to draw up an ordinance and zoning map.

The map will designate industrial, commercial and residential areas, Wobbe said.

A public hearing will be held to address concerns of citizens after the creation of the map, followed by a council meeting at which approval could be voted, he said.

Stix & Co. went broke and Brimberry was sentenced to 10 years in prison in U.S. District Court in Alton in 1983 for obstructing justice in the federal investigation of the stock fraud.

He was paroled in 1990 after serving seven years. "The Brimberys lived in a $1.7 million mansion in Las Vegas, and made frequent trips to the gambling tables in Las Vegas," authorities said.

The time length is up to the zoning commission, but Wobbe recommended that the body meet with the Southwestern Illinois Planning Commission approximately once or twice per month.

The cost to the city for services from the Planning Commission will range from $5,000 to $5,500, Wobbe said.

City officials will now work to recruit members of the planned Venice zoning commission.

Trivia

In 1991, 489 cases were determined to be arson by the State Fire Marshal, up from 370 in 1990, for an increase of 32 percent, according to the Illinois Insurance Information Service.

Knowing Emergency Room procedures reduces worries

Almost everyone has made a trip to the Emergency Room at one time or another. Chances are, whether you were sick or injured or brought in a friend or loved one who needed treatment, you were anxious and worried.

In an emotional situation like this, it is often hard to understand the procedures you have to go through. All you know is that you need help. The last thing you want to do is fill out papers or sign forms.

These first steps you take may be the ones that make your treatment a lot faster and more effective.

"When someone who does not require immediate care comes into the ER at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, the first thing he or she does is register," said Terry Deloney, ER supervisor.

"If you are unable to answer the questions, it is important to bring someone with you who can."

The registration clerk takes the patient's time and addresses the nearest relative and other personal information, and the specific complaint you came to the ER to be treated for.

Non-immediate problems are best left to the patient's personal physician, Deloney said.

"Your treatment will be faster if you limit your complaint to the problem you came to have treated," she said.

The next step for the registration clerk is to have you sign an assignment form. This form states what type of insurance you have, if you are on Illinois Public Aid, or if you have no insurance.

If you have insurance or are on IPA, a copy of your insurance or green card is attached to the assignment form. This may keep you from having billing problems later.

According to Deloney, during the busiest hours, from 3 to 11 p.m., the ER is in triage status. Triage status is a way of organizing personnel and equipment in the ER. It assures that the most serious cases are seen first and it improves the quality of care.

The triage nurse sees the patient and asks for important information.

Medications you are taking and what you are taking them for.

If you have any allergies; and Any medical or surgical problems.

"Often, an individual might have a variety of symptoms," Deloney said. "We want to get a complete picture of the problem, but we also need to treat the worst problems first."

Your ear may hurt, your elbow aches, etc. But we can help you more quickly if you focus on the most important symptom.

Patients are brought into the treatment area of the Emergency Room as soon as an appropriate room and staff are available.

The ER physician sees the patient, evaluates his or her condition and gives orders for the necessary treatment.

If the patient has a personal physician, the ER physician begins working with him or her.

Personal physicians are seen most often for checkups and problems. Because they are familiar with the patient's past history, they help by consulting with the ER physician providing emergency care, helping him or her provide better care faster.

To ensure quality care, hospitals carefully screen a physician's training and credentials before allowing him or her to practice in the medical center either as an emergency physician or as a private physician.

By state law, private physicians on staff at a hospital are the only physicians who can admit patients to that hospital.

ER physicians, because of their specialized training in emergency care, are contracted through St. Elizabeth Medical Center to treat emergency conditions. They do not have a private practice at SEMC nor admit patients to the medical center.

"If a patient has no private physician, he or she is assigned to the physician who is on call at that time," Deloney said.

"The only problem is that the on-call physician only sees and treats the patient for this episode of illness, so there is no time for the patient to get to know the physician and feel comfortable with him or her. This is why it is important to have a personal physician before an emergency happens."

For those who don't have a personal physician, SEMC's Physician Referral Line can be called at 798-DOCS (798-3627). Physician Referral personnel can give the names and telephone numbers of physicians on staff at SEMC.

College Night here tonight

Area high school and college students are invited to attend College Night at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College, 4950 Maryville Road, on Thursday 26 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

According to Jill Shaw, night coordinator of the Granite City Campus, students will have the opportunity to talk with representatives from Belleville Area College and more than 20 other colleges and universities about programs, requirements and tuition.

"This is an excellent way for students to find out more about the colleges and universities in which they are interested by talking with representatives one on one," Shaw said.

Scheduled to attend are: Jewish Hospital School of Nursing, Lindenwood College, Lutheran Medical Center School of Nursing, MacMurray College, McKendree College, St. Louis University, Sangamon State University, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Illinois College at Jacksonville, University of Missouri—Rolla, University of Missouri—Columbia, Deaconess College of Nursing, Parks College—Scott Air Force Base, Washington University, Webster University, Fontbonne College, Maryville University, St. Louis College of Pharmacy, Air Force ROTC and Western Illinois University.

For information, call the Granite City Campus at 931-0600 or toll-free in Illinois at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 441.

WCTU receives two awards

The Granite City Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Feb. 29 at the home of Elizabeth Finley in Glen Carbon.

The hostess provided breakfast for the group, after which the president of the WCTU, Doris Brown, gave the devotions and then conducted the business. The lesson for the month was the United States Citizenship Quiz.

The Granite City Union received two awards from the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. One was a certificate for a Builder's Union, which was given for receiving new members over and above last year's membership. The other award was a certificate for an Advance Union because all the members dues were paid by Nov. 30.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Vera Lynn, 2849 E. 25th St., Granite City on March 28.

Unit 307 completes corsages

Venice-Madison Unit 307, American Legion Auxiliary, Junior Group met on Monday, March 9, at the Post 307 Home in Venice.

Following lunch, the business meeting was conducted by Kirsten Yobbi, Junior President.

Discussion was held on the skit for the Department Junior Conference in May. The group will act out the song "Calendar Girl."

It was decided to hold another meeting on March 30 at 6:30 p.m. so that all contest entries for Poppy, Americanism picture book, and doll dressing can be finished for the District Meeting on April 4.

The girls wrote Easter notes to service people overseas to be sent to "Mail Call."

There were 11 members present and each one completed a poppy corsage and a poppy tray favor for the contests.

Those present were: Beth Baker, Carrie Baker, Christine Ballard, Rhonda Ballard, Amanda Polley, Jenna Miller, Megan Miller, Catherine Moreland, Chelsey Peery, Kaleigh Peery, and Kirsten Yobbi. Adults present were: Connie Ballard, Rose Moreland, Carla Peery, Norma Hillmer, and the two advisors: Dorothy Hinson and Cindy Yobbi.

Next meeting will be March 30 at 6:30 p.m. at Post 307 Home.

DUV Aunt Becky Tent 92 meets

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War—Aunt Becky Young Tent 92 met at the home of Irma Taylor for the Feb. 27th meeting.

Opening prayer was given by Louise Thompson and all repeated the Pledge of Allegiance. President Louise Brinker conducted the business segment.

Roll call and reading of the records was by secretary Janet Sander. Thompson read the Treasurer's report.

A get well card was sent to Enid Bolin. The annual picnic was discussed and it to be held in Wilson Park June 25.

The Gateway BPW's Shirley Rapoff—Foundation introduces guest speaker Laura Tungett of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The Gateway Business and Professional Women's organization held its February meeting at Brenda's Restaurant on Old Alton Road.

Collect was given by Juanita Williams and Pledge of Allegiance by Marian Cavins. Shirley Rapoff-Foundation, chairman, introduced Laura Tungett as the speaker for the evening. She is a RN-Exercise Specialist in the Cardiac Rehabilitation Department at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Granite City.

Tungett gave a slide presentation to the group giving valuable tips on heart disease and its prevention. She said there are 75 people in her program and each have had some type of heart disease, and with her experience with them, prevention of heart diseases should start as early as school age. Heart disease is the leading disease and most of it is caused by our lifestyles.

Tungett said things that cause heart disease are stress, no exercise, high fatty foods, overweight, smoking, diabetes and high blood pressure. All of which most of the time can be changed through proper eating and exercise. If there is a family history of such disease, this just makes it more difficult but not impossible.

Exercise is very good, but make sure it is the right exercise for you and safe. Walking is very good but take a 20- to 30-minute walk at least three times a week. Low salt foods, reduce weight and learn to relax are also very helpful and important.

"Know your cholesterol-level count," she told the group. "You should try to keep it 200 or under. She stated women are more fortunate than men in that they have a protector called 'estrogen' in their early life, but, of course, later in life they begin to lose this, and then they catch up with men and heart disease is as risky for them as it is for men."

She emphasized again: "Eat properly, do exercise, know your blood pressure and cholesterol count and learn to relax, so you can have a healthier life."

Rapoff announced the club's $100 scholarship recipient was Belleville Area College, Granite City Campus, for students in their GED program.

The members nominated Celestia Puryear, Shirley Rapoff and Marian Cavins as the nominating committee for election of officers 1992-93.

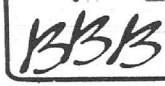

Guests for the evening were Jean Pritchard and Terry Hahnemann and the recipient of the traveling basket was Marian Cavins.

Derr announced the District XIV spring meeting would be March 29 and the hostess club for it would be Marissa BPW.

Parish priests, sisters guests at annual Young at Heart dinner

The priests and sisters of Holy Family Parish were guests at the Young at Heart annual Corned Beef and Cabbage Dinner. Grace was said by the pastor, Rev. William Fisherkeller.

The regular meeting was called to order by President Irma Manning, who led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Minutes were read by Katherine Borosky, recording secretary, and Treasurer's report was given by Louise Kovar.

Reports were given by Elizabeth McCoy, Membership, who reported 86 in attendance, 140 paid-up members, and a new member, Frances Goldsach.

Winnie Kelly, Friendship, reported sending 20 sympathy cards and three get-well cards. Publicity report was given by Lucille Caban.

Helen Harshany, Refreshments chairman, thanked the members for their support and cooperation in furnishing cakes, covered dishes for the pot luck and the serving of refreshments at the meeting.

Warren Bequette, vice president, said the evening's entertainment would be the Fairview Heights Senior Citizens Kitchen Band and games would be played at the April meeting.

March birthdays being celebrated are by Eva Six, Ann Giesse, Winnie Kelly, Ann Michels, Cleola Siebert, Frances Pelate and Frances Gallauer.

Announcements of coming events: reservations and payment of $15 has been extended to April 20 for the Meramec Country Show, Steeleville, Mo. The $15 cost covers transportation and admission. Lunch enroute will not be provided. Call 876-8328 to make reservations.

Family Fest Picnic will be held on May 15.

A day of recollection, May 15, which will begin with Mass, is being planned. More information on the time and agenda will be given at the April meeting.

The Legion of Mary's Acolyte ceremony will be March 29, at Staunton. A bus will be leaving from Holy Family Parish at 1:15 p.m. The ceremony begins at 2:30 p.m. Roundtrip bus fare is $2.50.

Young at Heart members are asked to furnish homemade cookies for the reception following the performance of "The Witness." "The Passion and Death of Jesus" will be presented at 7 p.m., at Holy Family Church April 5.

Father Fisherkeller and President Manning thanked the members for the food brought for Holy Family's Food Fantasy. Members voted to do this each month.

The slate of officers for 1992-93 was presented: president, Margaret Kwiatkowski; vice president, Lucille Caban; treasurer, Louise Kovar; recording secretary, Cecelia Mance; and corresponding secretary, Cecelia Cruse. The election will be held in April.

Attendance prizes were won by Helen Noeth, Ruth Novack, Martin Polette, Ann Blacklock, Rosemary Nagy, Al Klarich, Don Kinney, Sister Angeline, Mickey Krusec, Ruth Bridges, Zita Bequette and Theresa Luebber.

Selections by the Fairview Heights Senior Citizens Kitchen Band concluded the St. Patrick's celebration.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m., April 20.

Window Decor...

INGENIOUS IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME

The '80s were about going out, the '90s are about staying home, trend watchers report—and more time at home can mean more time to look around and make a decision to change and update your home decor. Often, the best way to give your home a whole new outlook is to look into new window treatments.

An attractive window treatment makes almost any room look great and can serve a variety of other purposes, from light transmission to improved energy efficiency. An ideal shade should be durable, easy-to-clean and coordinated with room interiors. Here are some bright ideas in window treatments that could reflect well on your decorating scheme:

For a timeless appeal, look into traditional window treatments that offer a touch of elegance, such as the new Duette honeycomb pleated shades by Hunter Douglas. They offer a soft, dressy alternative for window coverings, are available in any size and shape and a variety of colors and fabrics that permit various degrees of light transmission, from blackout to transparent. There are no seams, holes or visible cords.

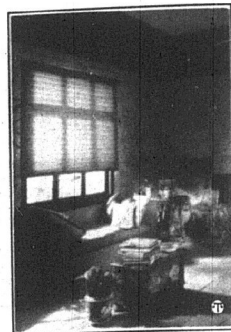

Go Victorian! Many people like the rich, ornate window dressings of the 19th century. Duette Sheer Visuale, a virtually transparent shade that has the Old-World look of lace, comes in three delicate white-on-white patterns. For added drama, the sheer shade also is available in deep tones. Both light and dark sheers let the sunshine in.

When you want to keep the sun out to protect fine furnishing fabrics, a good choice is the Duette Eclipse, which blocks out 99 percent of outside light, including harmful UV rays. All cords are hidden, so light won't filter through the cord holes. Combine the black-out and the sheer shade with the Duette Duolite dual-fabric hardware system for the ultimate in light control. If you need help updating or developing entirely new window treatments for conventional or non-conforming windows, visit the staff decorators and salespeople at your local window treatment shop.

As secure as a bedtime story.

Almost ready for bed. Eyes nearly closed but concealing the enthusiasm for "just one more story." It's hard to resist. And when you bring that story to life, his special world is even better. Today a new memory, tomorrow new promise. Now home, safe and secure.

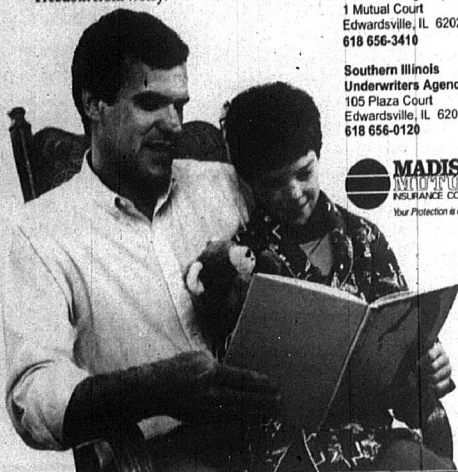

For you and your family, Madison Mutual's homeowner insurance provides security just as safe. In fact, Madison Mutual provides the most complete coverage you can get... at surprisingly low rates.

Since a lot depends on you, isn't it best to be sure? Contact Madison Mutual now to learn all the details and receive a rate quotation. Call or stop by your local agents office.

ENERGY SAVING Improvements

- Replace any incandescent light bulbs with fluorescent bulbs, which convert electricity to visible light up to five times more efficiently and last as much as 20 times longer.

There's no better time to improve your home, especially when you can profit in the long run through energy savings.

At any time of the year, cleaning up the house can mean cleaning up on savings. Some homeowners have learned how to benefit from their cleaning projects by making energy saving improvements that will help to save money year-round on home fuel bills.

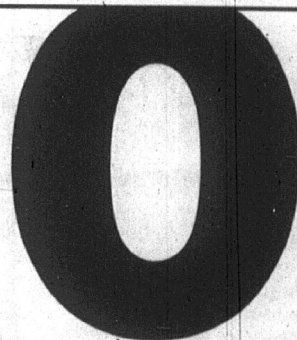

- Insulate your home's attic. Adding extra insulation can help reduce the amount of energy you use to cool your home in the summer and heat it next winter.

- Weatherize—Air leaks can account for up to 30 percent of a home's wasted energy.

- Add new blinds, shades or awnings to your home.

DID YOU KNOW?

When you watch television or fix microwave popcorn, odds are you're using coal. Nearly sixty percent of the electricity consumed in the United States today is generated from coal. In other words, most electricity is coal by wire. Fortunately, America is blessed with an abundance of coal. Today's new technologies burn coal cleanly to produce one of our lowest-cost sources of electric power.

It's nothing to take out our home equity line of credit.

CLOSING COSTS $0
POINTS $0
UP-FRONT FEES $0

At Guardian Savings Bank, we won't charge you closing cost, points or up-front fees on our home equity line of credit. Even the annual fee of $25 is waived the first year. Leave your checkbook at home. You won't need it. After a one time credit approval, you may be able to borrow up to 75% of the appraised value of your home, less any outstanding mortgage.

Since it's a line of credit, you pay interest only on what you borrow and, for most people, it's fully tax deductible.* That's why an Equity Tapper line of credit is a smart way to raise the cash you need for home improvements, a new car, a college education, or whatever. So if you

Roofing Projects: Now is the time

If you are like most homeowners, you probably haven't given much thought to your roof lately. However, roofing experts suggest that the best time to take a long, hard look at the condition of your roof is not when there's a problem, but right now, when you can carefully weigh the many options available to you and make an educated decision.

While there are many roofing materials available, it makes good sense to invest in the highest quality roofing material your budget allows, according to Robert Garrett, director of marketing, residential roofing products, GAF Building Materials Corp., a leading producer of roofing products.

"A high quality roof provides not only maximum protection for your family and your possessions, but adds the perfect finishing touch to the overall look of your home," he says.

There are many different

High quality roofing materials are available in a variety of colors and textures to enhance the architectural design and overall appearance of any home.

roofing materials on the market today, including slate, wood, aluminum, organic-based asphalt and fiberglass-based asphalt. Each offers a different appearance, overall performance characteristics, fire ratings, life expectancy and warranty.

The most popular material is the fiberglass-based asphalt shingle. Fiberglass shingles combine fiberglass base mat, weathering grade asphalt and coated granules. In general, fiberglass stands up better to weather conditions, offers better fire protection, extended manufacturer's warranties and provides superior performance over time.

These shingles also come in a great variety of colors and textures to enhance the architectural design and overall appearance of your home and to complement other homes in the neighborhood.

"Most homeowners don't consider their roof a design element," notes Garrett, "but the roofing can and does influence the look or curb side appeal of a house."

According to Garrett, texture and color are important parts of the design of a roofing product. The company's Timberline® Series of shingles, for example, is designed for both beauty and performance.

The series also is rated Class A by Underwriters Laboratories (the highest fire and wind resistance rating available) which means the shingles have passed the most rigorous tests to assure maximum protection for your home.

When choosing a new roofing material, it's a good idea to consider the manufacturer's warranty. Most offer protection against manufacturing defects on a "prorated" basis for the full length of the warranty. Many cover reasonable labor costs on a prorated basis also. If you're not sure what it covers, ask, says Garrett.

"Too often the warranty is overlooked until it's too late, when, in fact, the warranty should be a major consideration in the purchase," says Garrett. "And the longer the warranty, the better."

Choosing the right roof can provide your family with years of comfort and enjoyment, as well as enhance the appearance and value of your most important asset. Be sure to consider your options carefully.

Grassroots makes the difference

By Bill Ward, Governmental Affairs Director

Grass roots communications with members of the U.S. Congress and the Illinois General Assembly is the key to success in the legislative arena. A well-written letter, a timely phone call, or a personal visit with your Congressman or State Legislator are excellent ways to communicate your views to our elected officials.

HBAI has an event on the horizon that provides the means to keep housing at the top of the agenda in Springfield.

There are those who believe that programs such as these are without useful results. In fact, the record speaks otherwise.

In 1990, Home Builders from Illinois led by Illinois

National Rep. Larry Kinsella met with Illinois Congressman Terry Bruce minutes before he was to attend a "Mark-up" meeting on proposed revisions to the Clean Air Act. Language was in the bill which would have provided EPA the authority to ban water extension in areas across the country listed as "non-attainment areas." Congressman Bruce was unaware of this provision but vowed to the Home Builders to strike the language from the bill. Bruce followed-up on our request and sanctions against extending public water systems to new homes was lifted from H.R. 3030.

HBAI has an event on the horizon that provides the means to keep housing at the top of the agenda in Springfield.

As you can see, grassroots made the difference!

HBAI will be hosting its Legislative Conference in Springfield on April 22nd and 23rd.

Day one features a Legislative Committee meeting to brief all participants on the State Associations key priorities in the Illinois General Assembly.

A Legislative Dinner with your local legislators will follow the adjournment of the Legislative Committee. We have found the dinner to be an excellent opportunity to informally meet with your elected officials about your job and theirs.

There are no long-winded speeches or introductions. Those who have attended in the past know that the Legislative Dinner creates new friendships and a permanent communications bond between the builder and the legislator. It is one of our best grassroots efforts.

Last year, State Treasurer Pat Quinn spoke to the Home Builders of the need to stimulate the new housing market through state assistance. Since that meeting HBAI has been working with Quinn on a proposal which will hopefully be introduced in time for the 1992 building season. Details to follow.

As you can see, these conferences have meaningful results and provide builders with the opportunity to sustain and grow in the housing industry.

To really make a difference in your future pick up the phone now and call your State Home Builder office for information on this upcoming conference. The number is 1-800-255-6047. You'll be amazed at the difference you can make!

A TOUCH of Color

Softly colored, textured ceiling panels offer a fresh look for your spring decorating project

Take a fresh look at what a new suspended ceiling can do for your spring decorating project. Now a ceiling can be more than just that boring white surface overhead.

Armstrong, a leading ceilings manufacturer, has introduced four new lightly textured, soft-colored ceilings. Called Pebblebrook Colors, they come in delicate pastel shades of Peach, Plum, and Rose and a rich neutral Tan. Each shade was carefully selected to coordinate beautifully with today's popular color trends in paint, wallpaper, laminates and other interior finishes.

Now a suspended ceiling can become an integral part of the room's overall color scheme and decor. A touch of Tan adds gentle richness. A hint of Peach radiates sunny warmth. The light shade of Rose reflects petal-like softness. And cool Plum creates crisp drama, without coming on too strong.

A complete Pebblebrook Colors ceiling system includes the 2' x 2' panels and a suspended ceiling grid system in matching colors. Or, for a bolder, more contemporary look, you can add the sparkle and flash of metallic accent grid in either brass or mirror finish.

A Pebblebrook suspended ceiling offers a lot more than just good looks. Its hardworking features include sound-absorbing acoustics to muffle noises, an easy-clean washable surface, and a Class A fire-retardant rating. Even after installation, the panels simply lift out of the grid system for easy access to the space above.

In rooms that need extra lighting, energy efficient fluorescent fixtures can be positioned right where they're needed. Other types of fixtures like recessed spot lights or track lighting can also be designed into the finished ceiling.

Suspended ceilings are a do-it-yourself project. Most can be installed over a weekend. And, you can see the wide variety of styles available at most leading home centers.

SMART PACKING TIPS

"Tis' the season to be moving." Each year about 17% of the American population pulls up stakes and moves. Nearly half pack up and move between June and September.

Moving can be a stressful experience. According to studies, there is a 50% chance that your goods will be damaged or lost and a 23% chance the goods will be picked up or arrive late using a commercial mover. To avoid these problems, people are increasingly renting trucks and vans to move their belongings themselves. Renting a truck to move yourself can save you up to 50% of the cost of using a moving company and alleviate the risk of your goods being damaged by a moving company.

If you decide on a do-it-yourself move, you should follow these smart packing tips:

• Major Appliances

Drain and wipe dry. Remove all fittings. Fill interiors with soft items such as towels, pillows or stuffed toys. Cover with moving pads and tie securely with rope.

• Bedding

Mark the pieces so they're easy to re-assemble. Lock bed rails together with tape or rope. Leave sheets on mattresses to protect them.

• Books

Always use small boxes for books. Pack them flat, alternating the bindings. Use newspapers as cushions between layers.

• Mirrors and Paintings

Wrap small paintings in paper and pack in boxes; large paintings should be encased in cardboard and placed on edge along the side of the truck.

• Dishes and Glassware

Wrap each piece in bubble pack or paper before packing into boxes. Don't stack anything flat. Cushion with towels and newspaper.

• Lamps

Use individual boxes for shades. Use bubble pack for cushioning. Box bases separately.

• Loading

Load the heaviest items first. All lightweight items should be stacked on top of the load.

➤ Tips on a new storm door

Knowing what to look for can help you find the best value

In a recent survey of 500 readers of Better Homes and Gardens magazine, one-third of the respondents said the storm door on the front entries of their houses were more than 10 years old. If you're in the same situation, consider adding storm door replacement to your list of spring home improvement projects. As you begin to shop around, you'll be amazed at how much storm door design and appearance have improved in the past 10 years.

Here are some things to consider when choosing a new storm door:

- Above all, look for a solid core storm door. A solid core door with an aluminum skin has a heavy weight durability and gives a "feel" of quality, like the feel of closing the door on a new car. You won't feel this quality with a vinyl skin or hollow aluminum door.

- For maximum aesthetic appeal, look for a storm door with the most glass area. This is especially true if you have an attractive entry door. Good examples are two products manufactured by Cole Sewell Corporation: The Estate Series Model 5500 and The Cambridge Series Model 1700.

- Avoid storm doors with exposed assembly screws, both in the framing and to attach any decorative moldings. The best storm doors are designed with the assembly screws hidden, for a cleaner, more appealing look of quality.

- Are the door moldings the same color and of the same material as the rest of the door? Some manufacturers offer bronze storm doors with black moldings or white plastic trim on an aluminum or vinyl door. This is a problem, because it's difficult to match colors perfectly between different materials, and plastic moldings tend to age quickly and yellow, causing color inconsistencies on the door.

- Don't forget to compare the hardware (door handle, etc.) of the storm doors you're looking at. The better models feature nicer hardware that gives the storm door a "front door" look. For example, the Cole Sewell Model 5500 features an Italian lever that adds the dramatic appearance of solid brass.

Once you've found a few storm doors you like, let a value/price comparison help you make your purchase decision. A better quality door may cost more, but for the added aesthetic beauty and durability you'll get, the few dollars extra you'll spend upfront is a good investment. Also, if you amortize this "premium for quality" over the life of the door, the added expense becomes negligible.

• Travel Security Tips •

Leaving home, either for vacation or business, doesn't mean that you have left crime behind. In fact, property crime rates are highest in the summer, when people tend to spend more time away from their homes and apartments.

The good news is that you can greatly reduce your chances of becoming a victim by using common sense, staying alert, and taking some basic steps to help protect yourself, your family, and your property.

Here are several tips to help keep your home safe and secure:

- SECURE YOUR HOME or apartment before you leave. Make sure your home looks lived in, not empty by:
 - ~ Cancelling all mail and deliveries or asking a trusted neighbor to make daily collections.
 - ~ Investing in an automatic timer for your lights, radio and television.
 - ~ Testing your smoke and/or burglar alarms.
 - ~ Turn down the volume on your phone. Constant ringing advertises your absence.

- BE EXTRA CAUTIOUS while on the road:

- ~ Carry little cash. Use travelers checks or credit cards, but remember to record check numbers and receipts. Keep these records separate from your valuables and cash.
- ~ Always lock your car. Keep valuables out of sight.
- ~ Consider joining a reputable automobile club. Be careful to review policy claims so that you know the extent of your coverage.
- ~ Lock valuables in a hotel safety deposit box, when possible.

Swimming Pool Safeguard:

Device signals movements of gates & doors

Drowning is the second leading cause of death nationwide for children under the age of five and is the leading cause of death in Texas, Florida, California, and Arizona.

A revolutionary new monitoring device, the Motion Alert™ from Design-Tech International, lets you know whenever a gate to the pool has been moved. The system consists of only two small components: a transmitter and a receiver. Simply place the transmitter on a desired object and if it moves, the transmitter will emit a signal. If you have small children, you will know the moment a gate to the pool is opened.

Motion Alert also can be used to inform you when the gates to your yard or inside doors are opened, when storage shed or garage doors are moved, to monitor medicine and gun cabinets.

Whenever the area you are monitoring is disturbed, a radio signal that will travel up to 300 feet is broadcast. The receiver will let you know with a ringing sound and a light (which stays on until you reset it) that the transmitter has been moved.

Helpful Hints

for Your Yard

Making your own mulch has become the environmentally responsible thing to do. And, with good reason. Yard debris comprises about 20 percent of garbage in landfills and much of that debris can be recycled into safe, useful fertilizer right in your own back yard. Many communities throughout the U.S. recently enacted legislation banning or restricting the disposal of leaves and lawn clippings in public landfills.

Grass clippings, branches, twigs and tree leaves make great mulch material. Experts at the McCulloch Corporation say that recycling your tree leaves has never been easier with gas-powered blower/vacuums that take the backache out of raking leaves.

Blower/vacuums enable you to easily pick up, bag and dispose of debris.

When shopping for leaf blowers or blower vacuums to collect leaves, look for equipment that will reduce the work involved in keeping a compost. Shredding leaves and lawn clippings before they are added to the mound reduces the space required for the compost and speeds the decomposition process. The McCulloch Pro Stream Blower Vacuum leaf blower not only eliminates raking, but shreds leaves and lawn debris before depositing them in the collection bag.

To begin a compost pile, spread some mulch material flat on the ground. Don't bury it in a pit.

Surround the material with an open-weave fence (snow or chain link) that's about three feet high. The fence will keep the mulch from blowing away, but enable sufficient air to circulate.

Once you've stashed about a foot of mulch, cover it with about three inches of animal manure or soil to provide bacteria that will promote decomposition. Water the material to keep it damp, but not soaking wet.

If your compost pile is decomposing sufficiently, you should feel some heat from the pile. If not, and the pile is wet, you might try reducing the amount of watering.

After about a month, you should find some useable mulch at the bottom of your pile.

Your Garden: Bounce back from Beetle Attack

There is certainly no shortage of hungry little bugs ready to chew up your garden and shrubs. But perhaps none are as eager to make lunch out of your landscape as the Japanese beetle.

These pests, which have a oval, metallic green body, feed on more than 250 different kinds of plants. The adults damage the leaf tissue and ripen ing fruit of vines, flowers, shrubs and trees. Japanese beetle larvae, which are called grubs, do additional damage by feeding on the root systems of plants.

Whether you're battling Japanese beetles or other pests, you'll get the best results by using an effective insecticide before the problem gets out of hand.

BIG ideas for Small Baths

Large, beautiful bathrooms are featured in all the leading magazines, but not every homeowner has a lot of space to devote to a bathroom. Is it possible to remodel small to average size baths to create those same luxurious retreats?

The fact is that with the variety of sizes and options in luxury bath products today, it is possible to enjoy big bathroom amenities in smaller spaces.

Here are some decorating ideas from the experts at American Standard, a leading manufacturer of plumbing fixtures and faucets, that can help you have a more glamorous bath:

■ Elegant whirlpools now come in standard bathtub sizes that fit even small bathrooms. Combine your whirlpool and shower stall: simply add a shower head and inlay some glass doors around the whirlpool.

■ If there's no room for a tub, try an exotic shower. Install a system of body sprays positioned at various heights along the wall. Put in a hand-held sport spray to add variety.

■ In small baths, good lighting is absolutely vital. Skylights and valences both create a feeling of spaciousness. Be sure to include waterproof lighting in the tub and shower area.

■ A pedestal sink is a popular choice for a small bath because it increases floor space and makes the whole room seem bigger in the process.

■ Putting recessed shelving between the studs in the wall lets you steal some extra space while still using regular depth shelves.

■ If the bathtub isn't doing double duty as a shower, you can drop the ceiling above it to create terrific storage space for linen.

■ Avoid dark fixture choices in a small space because they tend to close in a room. Light colors are the best way to go. Try to keep fixtures and vanities the same color.

Using geothermal cooling,
you and your family can stay cool, sleep better and feel more refreshed this summer.

Summertime can be brutal. Blistering heat. Suffocating humidity. And hot, sticky nights. Why make your family suffer through months of this, when you can give them the cool and refreshing benefits of geothermal cooling?

Compared to other cooling systems, a geothermal system is more energy efficient. This efficient use of energy isn't limited to cooling. Your geothermal system can also provide you and your family with home heating and supplemental water heating. Fact is, your year-round energy budget could be reduced by up to 60%!

CHECKLIST For Landscaping Tools

Your home can look more beautiful, become more valuable and bring you more happiness, just by improving the landscaping—plant more gardens, trees and shrubs, add new irrigation systems and generally improve your grounds. With the right tools, landscaping can be done with less time and effort than you may have thought possible. Here's a checklist of things to look for in landscaping tools and questions to ask before you buy:

✓ Quality:

Look for flame-treated, straight-grain hickory handles, the strongest wood for tools.

✓ Ruggedness:

"Can they take it?"

Check for high-impact, corrosion-resistant ductile iron in tool heads.

✓ Durability:

"Will they last?"

Check out tool for handle "fit" into tool head. Some tools feature the new rec-tangular fit that eliminates twisting and slippage which can result in "flying off the handle."

✓ Versatility

"How many jobs can they do?"

Look for multi-purpose tools such as the Groundbreakers Landscaping Tools from V & B Manufacturing Co., nine new tools with 18 different working tool heads.

✓ Performance:

"Will they fit me?"

Check out tools for size, weight and balance. Some lightweight, shorter handle tools are better for tight working situations and also for seniors and campers.

✓ Safety:

Check for curved handles on some long handle models. Shallow cuts mean less bending, less backaches—they're safer, too, because tool strike is away from user's feet.

Find out the four rules for painting perfection

Many of us have fond childhood memories of "painting by the number." But did you know that, figuratively speaking, you can do the same thing to get great exterior painting results?

1) Properly prepare the surface.

Even the best quality exterior paints can fail if applied to a dirty or unsound surface, so don't cut corners on surface preparation.

You can clean soon-to-be-painted surfaces with rented power-washing equipment or by scrubbing with a long-handled brush using plain soap and water.

Afterwards, remove loose, flaking or peeling paint by scraping or wire-brushing. Feather back rough paintedges by sanding. If you are repainting a glossy surface, also

2) Purchase top quality exterior paint.

To get the best-looking and longest-lasting paint job, be sure to buy the highest grade of paint. Top quality acrylic latex is excellent for most exterior applications.

According to the Paint Quality Institute, top quality acrylic latex paint has superior adhesion. As a result, it will grip and tenaciously hold onto a properly prepared surface. And that helps prevent paint failures like blistering, flaking and peeling.

Top quality latex paint also is very flexible, so it can expand and contract with the surface below when temperatures rise or fall dramatically. This, too, adds to the life to the paint job.

3) Use high quality brushes and tools.

To get the best results with your top quality paint, be sure to apply it with quality tools and accessories. They'll make the work more effortless and help you apply a thicker, more uniform coat for a better-looking paint job.

4) Paint under the right weather conditions.

Once you have your top quality paint and tools in hand, be sure to do your painting on a mild day—when temperatures are between 60 and 80 degrees and when there is little or no wind. Under these conditions, your paint will form a highly protective paint film that will last for years.

If you want further advice on "painting by numbers," keep one more number in mind: the telephone number of your local paint retailer, hardware store or decorating center. That's where you can purchase top quality paints and tools, and get helpful advice on all your home painting needs.

Fruits of the Earth

Fruit prints flourish in latest decorating trend

With the ever-increasing popularity of country-style decorating, it is no wonder that the latest darling of textile designers and interior decorators is turning out to be an old stand-by of country style: fruit print wallcoverings and fabric.

They run the gamut from ornate tapestry-inspired cornucopias to quaint, stencil-like strawberries. It is a decorating motif that has continued to appear over the centuries. The pineapple had a long tradition in Europe as a symbol of hospitality and was practically a staple of decorating in the Early American style. As wallcoverings and fabric, these patterns have been naturals for decorating the kitchen and dining room, representing as they do abundance, fertility and bountiful harvest.

But why relegate such a lovely and comforting natural patterns only to two rooms? There isn't a room in the house for which these prints aren't appropriate. Gina Shaw, Design Director for Eisenhart Wallcoverings, a leading American manufacturer of fine wallcoverings, offers the following advice for decorating with fruit prints:

• Pattern Mixing.— Don't be shy about mixing fruit prints with other patterns! The drama of these prints is best offset by austere stripes, subtle damask or lace prints, dainty oriental designs and tiny prints. However, remember that the colors must coordinate for a "pulled together" look, says Shaw.

• Accessories.— Why not carry the fruit motif into your decorative accessories? Try handpainted majolica tableware, glassware etched with bunches of grapes or bone china teacups painted with ripe peaches or blueberries. A selection of still life paintings or antique botanical prints would be perfect on walls. A cut-crystal bowl laden with seasonal fruit as the centerpiece on a table is a lovely touch.

• Borders.— Borders of all kinds are a wildly popular decorating tool. For a subtle effect, employ a fruit motif border with plain walls or walls papered in a coordinating small print. Eisenhart Wallcoverings offers a wide (12-inch) freize-like border called "Tapestry Border" from Ashfor House's Chanterelle Collection, that is visually exciting all on its own. For information on availability, call 1-800-848-5886.

This traditional grape clusters patterned wallpaper and fabric is country style at its best. All fabric and wallcoverings from Eisenhart's Color Tree Designs' Currant & Sage Collection.

NEW DESIGNS IN Kitchens & Baths

There's a styling revolution taking place in the kitchen and it's giving that tried and true fixture, the kitchen sink, new importance in the overall design and styling of the kitchen.

Home remodelers shopping for new sink can now choose from a wide range of fashion colors and surface finishes, a variety of bowl sizes and configurations, plus a vast array of made-to-fit accessories, that not only enhance the look of their kitchens but improve the overall efficiency of their space. In fact, these new kitchen sink styles are self-contained food preparation centers.

Many of these new looks are possible because of the introduction in recent years of a number of new and innovative sinkware materials, one that is leading the styling foray is Asterite®, a tough quartz and acrylic composite developed by ICI. Asterite is available in any color in the spectrum, from the bright primaries to the softest pastel shades. In addition, Asterite can be produced in any number of finishes, from a very contemporary high gloss, to a softened eggshell, to a lightly textured surface.

"Thanks to these new materials, today's kitchen sink is no longer a mundane component installed by the plumber, but a bona fide design element that adds both good looks and greater efficiency to a kitchen," says Darrell Florence, Asterite product manager for ICI Americas.

Interviews with a number of sinkware manufacturers confirm that this movement is just the beginning of a new era of design respectability for the kitchen sink.

"High style" is how Carolyn Brooks, marketing manager for Kindred Industries, describes the new sinkware looks. "And the trend is definitely toward color," she says.

"By including fashion colors such as black, red and blue, as well as the popular neutrals, such as white, gray and almond, we can be sure we have a color for everyone," Brooks adds.

"It's the moldability of Asterite that we consider its strongest characteristic," says Peter Shakespeare, product manager for Acriform International.

"We have found that our double bowl configuration, fashioned in Asterite, with one bowl eight inches deep and the other 10 inches deep, improves the efficiency of both food preparation and clean-up," he says. Acriform also offers an extra deep single bowl model which is gaining in popularity.

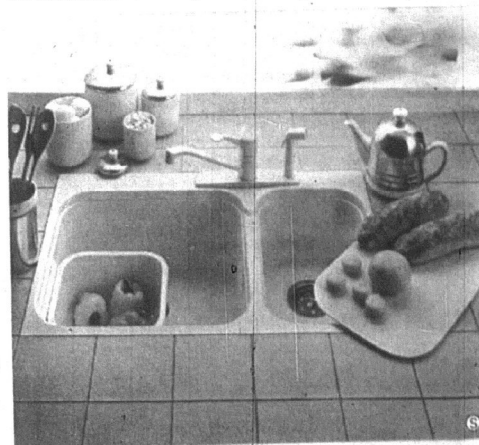

No matter what the color, or what the model, the new sinkware materials must stand up to the tough day-to-day demands of the kitchen environment, according to William Wood, president of Spring Ram America.

"Color availability has definitely gained in importance in choosing a kitchen sinkware material," says Wood. "But color alone is not enough. It's the combination of beauty and temperatures, up to 375°. And it resists the most difficult household stains, including red wine.

durability that makes the difference and this makes Asterite an ideal sinkware material."

Asterite is engineered to be tough, according to ICI's Florence. It is inherently stain-resistant, chip-resistant and highly resistant to scorching.

Asterite withstands extreme soapy water and a soft cloth is all that is needed for regular care.

"The good news is that the homeowner does not have to sacrifice style for efficiency and durability," says Florence.

The geothermal system

The best energy source for home heating and cooling is 93 million miles away and as close as your back yard.

It's geothermal heating and cooling—three times more efficient than fossil fuels. A simple system of underground loops absorbs the energy stored naturally in the soil around your home. In the winter, this warmth is transferred into the house. In the summer, the system is reversed, bringing cooled air into the home. Tap into a heating and cooling option that's right in your own back yard... the geothermal system. It's part of The Savings Group. Find out more.

Hardwood Flooring

A beautiful and practical home investment

You have heard the expression: "They just don't make 'em like they used to"...well, thank goodness the expression holds true for hardwood floors.

When it comes to hardwood, today's floors are far superior to those which your grandmother waxed on her hands and knees. State-of-the-art technology, combined with years of testing and research, has resulted in modern hardwood flooring that is both a pleasure to look at and a pleasure to care for.

Hardwood is a beautiful and practical flooring choice for your home. It adds elegance and value to any room, and today's easy-care finishes are as simple to maintain as other floor covering surfaces. As the popularity of hardwood flooring has grown, so has the list of manufacturers. But beware of inferior quality products and of companies that might not be in business a year from now to service your needs. When selecting a hardwood floor, always look for a product made by a reputable manufacturer.

A hardwood floor should last a lifetime, so shop for a floor with a warranty that does the same. Bruce Hardwood Floors, a premier manufacturer of hardwood flooring for over 100 years, maintains a superior level of technology and rigid quality control standards, enabling them to offer the most comprehensive warranty in the industry. Bruce's Lifetime Warranty covers all Bruce products, and promises that your floor will remain free from defects in lamination, assembly, milling and grading for a lifetime.

Also look for a floor that offers an easy-care finish. Bruce, the leader in floor finishing technology, offers two easy-care options: the Bruce Dura-satin® wax finish or the Bruce Dura-luster® urethane finish. Both of these finishes offer the beauty and durability that you expect from a quality hardwood floor, and both carry Bruce's extended five-year wear-layer warranty.

Remember, when buying a hardwood floor, look for a name that you can trust, a warranty that will keep you covered, and a finish that is easy to care for. A quality hardwood floor will enhance the beauty of your home today, and will add to the value of your investment for many years to come.

The Easy Maintenance of Vinyl Siding

If you're like most people, you put more money, time and energy into your home than into any other possession. Whether you're building a new house or are in the process of remodeling your present home, you should be aware of the low maintenance features and long life of solid vinyl before you choose an exterior siding material.

Once vinyl siding is properly applied, it gives any home a freshly painted look while providing the homeowner with years of freedom from repainting and tiresome upkeep. A simple soap and water rinse is all that is required for maintenance.

Vinyl siding's easy maintenance—combined with the wide selection of designs and colors now available—has made solid vinyl by far the most popular American siding material today.

A contributing factor to this widespread appeal is the lifetime warranty that major manufacturers like Bird Incorporated offer for both standard and premium lines of vinyl siding.

Constructed of tough PVC (polyvinyl chloride) compound, it cannot corrode or dent like aluminum and will not chip, peel or rot like wood. Color is molded clear through the panels so that even scratches will not show.

While it is important to invest in good quality Siding materials from a reputable manufacturer, it is equally important to select a professional home improvement contractor whose work you can trust.

A Laundry Center for the Kitchen

THE TREND TODAY is for a complete laundry center installed into a corner of the kitchen. Stacked laundry products—such as this 24-inch Whirlpool LT5000 Thin Twin center—offer space-saving laundry appliances, leaving room for a sink, an ironing board tucked into a drawer, and plenty of storage space for laundry supplies and a dirty clothes hamper. The convenience of a laundry center in a kitchen is the primary reason for many homeowners moving it from a remote basement. It also puts the laundry where the soiled loads are, saving time and steps.

Whirlpool Splendor

Selecting a whirlpool bath carefully can substantially increase its value, both in terms of bathing pleasure, and as an investment in the home.

Comfort, relaxation and hydro-therapy are the top three reasons why people buy whirlpools, according to a recent survey by Kohler Co. But whether the whirlpool will meet the buyer's expectations is dependent largely upon how the whirlpool has been designed and engineered, which varies widely from one model to another.

In order to make an educated purchase, it's important to think about how the whirlpool will be used, and to get acquainted with the features

Steve Brant, manager, Bathing Products at Kohler, the nation's leading manufacturer of plumbing and specialty products, suggests a checklist of things to consider when buying a whirlpool.

• Examine the jets

Are they located so that the bather can easily direct the jet stream to major muscle groups for effective hydro-massage? Can the proportion of air and water be adjusted to vary the massage action for each bather?

• Look at the construction

What's it made of? Enameled cast iron is the premium material for whirlpool construction because of its high durability and long-lasting glossy finish. Cast acrylic is another good choice. It is durable and easily formed into a variety of shapes.

• Notice the tubing underneath

Is it made of a rigid or fully supported material? Flexible tubing, if unsupported, can sag with the passage of time, creating pockets of stagnant water, even after the bathtub has been drained.

• Sit in the whirlpool to make sure it is comfortable for you

• Check the warranty

It's important to know the company's reputation and how long it's been in business. Brant recommends sticking with a familiar brand name whirlpool that is completely pre-plumbed at the factory. A name brand bathtub that is "jetted" by a third party after it leaves the factory puts the buyer in the vulnerable position of owning a product on which the factory warranty has been voided.

• Look for UL & IAPMO

Make sure the whirlpool is both UL & IAPMO (International Association of Plumbing and Mechanical Officials) listed. The listing should be for the entire unit, not just one or two components.

"The high standards required for UL and IAPMO listing of the entire unit ensure a safe and reliable product," Brant says.

If the whirlpool will be used for leisurely baths, it is wise to consider the addition of an in-line heater, which will maintain the water temperature of the bath.

Some whirlpools come equipped with a two-speed motor, which offers more variety in water action. The low speed can be used for relaxing bath, while the high speed provides a more vigorous massage.

Another feature to consider is location of the on-off switch. One mounted right on the whirlpool is most convenient. More basic models have a wall-mounted switch which necessitates leaving the tub to turn it on or off. This feature, however, might be preferable if children will use the unit.

A Cooktop for any kitchen

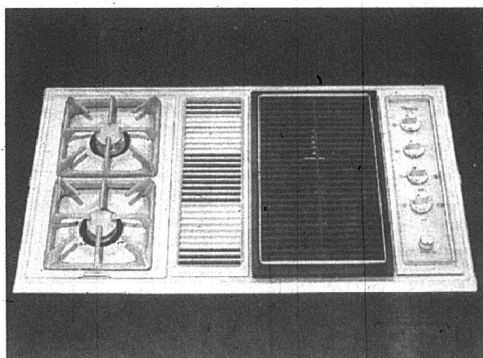

SOLID-ELEMENT ELECTRIC COOKTOPS, long popular with European cooks, now appear in more and more American kitchens. Cast-iron solid elements, as shown in this 36-inch Whirlpool RC8436XTW model, are sealed to a tempered-glass surface for easy cleaning. Solid elements offer even heat distribution for efficient cooking. The cooktop design features styling that blends easily into traditional, country or contemporary kitchen decor. Available in white or black tempered glass, Whirlpool solid-element cooktops come in 30- or 36-inch widths and feature infinite-heat surface unit controls.

Create a Country Kitchen

GIVE A KITCHEN A NEW LOOK in no time with Con-Tact® Brand Trims and coordinating Con-Tact Coverings. Shown here on walls, kitchen cabinets, napkin holders and spice rack, these self-adhesive decorative coverings can be used wherever you have a clean, dry non-porous surface. The Copenhagen pattern shown is in the traditional blue and white so popular in kitchens. Trims come in a variety of patterns in five-yard rolls and widths of 6-inch, 4½-inch and 2-inch. Coordinating Con-Tact patterns come in 18-inch wide rolls. Expected retail prices run about $2.99 each.

BBQ any time of the year

LOOKING FOR A FLEXIBLE COOKTOP that offers options for grilling or griddle cooking? Then consider a convertible cooktop system with removable cooking modules that can be replaced with others that offer specialty cooking options. For example, this 36-inch Whirlpool SC8900EXW gas cooktop features a standard two-burner module and a grill. Its optional cooking modules include a griddle, rotisserie and an additional two-burner unit. This design is self-ventilating with a built-in down draft exhaust system that eliminates the need for a hood. Whirlpool electric convertible cooktops offer optional modules with a griddle, cast-iron solid elements, ceramic-glass surface, and even an additional grill.

Summer of '91 all over again?

I doubt Bob Stegemeier feels any added pressure. As competitive as he is, he puts enough pressure on himself to succeed.

But from the outside looking in, if there's any high school baseball team in the state which would be expected to make some noise it would be the Warriors.

That's because of those lazy, hazy, crazy (and winning) days of summer, circa 1991. Granite City was the baseball capital of Illinois last summer. The Post 113 American Legion team played the role of Operation Desert Storm while the rest of the area played Saddam Hussein. They not only won — they dominated. All the way to the state tournament before falling one run short of the state title.

The Junior Triplets, meanwhile, advanced even farther. They rolled to the District 22 championship in impressive fashion, then bashed their way to the Mickey Mantle state championship in Springfield. Greg Patton's team won state on the same day the Senior Legion won its district title. It was then on to regional competition where Granite City battled long odds and almost beat them, placing second to a powerhouse local team from Kansas City.

Drake Marshall and Billy Van Buskirk were starters on the Senior Legion, and they will be major factors as seniors with the Warriors this spring. Randy Scott (out at least three weeks with a broken hand), John Cozior and Jason Maxfield also saw some time with Ralph Burnett's team.

Maxfield was the center fielder and leadoff batter for the Junior Triplets. Other key players for the Junior like Chad Dooley, Jeff Ridenour, Jeff Luffman, Ben Hicks, Brent Dippel, Les Nunes, Mark Peterson, Kriser, Bobby Wilson, Billy Herman and Matt Stinson will all have their share with the varsity.

Does summer success automatically translate into spring-time joy?

"It's not automatic," said Stegemeier. "A lot of high school teams are broken up in the summer and the competition isn't always the same. But the talent we have obviously seems to be

Ohlendorf stepping down

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Christmas season is often time for reflection, and Bill Ohlendorf reached a decision during the holidays.

That decision became official Tuesday when the Granite City School Board approved Ohlendorf's resignation as the Warrior basketball coach.

"The consolation game we played with Edwardsville at the (Collinsville) holiday tournament was what led me to my final decision," said Ohlendorf. "We played so poorly (a 67-48 loss) and anyone who was around in the locker room afterwards knew it took a lot out of me. It was time to ride off into the sunset."

Ohlendorf, who turns 53 on May 4, will take early retirement after the 1993-94 school year. The job is open now and the most likely successor is assistant coach John Van Buskirk.

"That would be my choice," said Ohlendorf. "John played here and the players we have coming back are already familiar with him."

Ohlendorf, a Venice native, coached the Red Devils from 1961-73 and was the head coach at Granite City North from 1973-83. After serving as an assistant to Don Deterding for several years, he returned to the head coaching ranks when Deterding retired in 1989. He was 44-36 in the last three years, including 20-8 and a regional championship this year.

"I gave (retirement) some consideration last year," he said. "We had discussed it family-wise. But I figured we could be pretty good this year, and we were."

When he took the job three years ago, it wasn't necessarily for the short term. But he feels secure financially and seems anxious to retire.

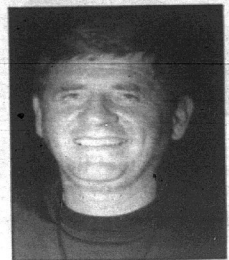

"Don had gone through a couple years where the talent wasn't what it had been," he said. "I just wanted to help get things back to a respectable level. I feel we did that."

Ohlendorf will enjoy sitting back next year.

"The season is so long," he said. "It would help everyone if it was condensed a little. I won't miss that. But I'm sure I'll get a little itchy at some point. I've been coaching for 30 years, so that's only natural."

"(The Warriors) should be fine next year. Larry Mosby and Leroy Samuels will be good players, and our JV team was competitive with everyone in the conference. It will be fun just to follow them as a fan."

Plenty of talent on hand for baseball team

It's been a winning school year so far, and the Warrior baseball team doesn't want to mess that up.

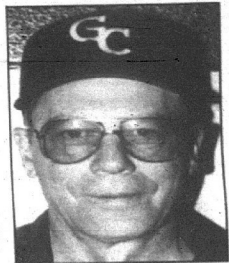

Bob Stegemeier begins his 19th season Saturday at home with a noon double-header against Washington (Ill.) with an interesting array of talent to choose from. If the success of last summer combined with the success enjoyed by the Warrior football and basketball teams this year mean anything, it should be an enjoyable spring.

The Warriors (21-13 a year ago) return a good mix of experienced juniors and seniors, plus a decent dose of sophomore talent.

"We can't afford any injuries, but you always are in that position," said Stegemeier. "If we're healthy, this team can compete with just about anybody. I just hope the winning attitude carries over from the football and basketball seasons, and last summer."

Granite City was the baseball capital of Illinois last summer, winning the state Junior Legion championship and finishing second at the Senior Legion level.

The returning seniors are led by pitcher/infielder Drake Marshall. He was 4-3 with a 2.61 ERA last spring and batted .244 with 14 RBIs and 17 stolen bases while playing some great second base.

"Any team Drake is on should be competitive," said Stegemeier. "The other players will hear about it from him if they're not."

Multi-talented junior contingent makes Lady Warriors solid bet

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The past year hasn't been the greatest for Gene Baker, but the Lady Warrior soccer team should be able to lift his spirits.

Last summer, Baker lost one of his most valued friends, assistant boys coach Mel Bunting, to cancer. Two weeks ago today Baker's father, Eddie, also passed away. His mother is also at less than full health.

But on to brighter things. The Lady Warriors, who open at home Tuesday against McCluer (6 p.m., at Memorial Stadium) are loaded with talent and experience and are ranked fourth in the first Journal coaches poll of the season. A second straight trip to the state tournament is a strong possibility.

"The expectations are great," said Baker, who takes a 57-17-5 record into his fifth season coaching the girls. "But these girls are learning to adopt my pragmatic attitude. You earn your respect game by game. What happened last year doesn't matter much now."

Witter now accepted; one of area's top guns

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

As hard as it seems to believe now, Amanda Witter had a hard time being accepted as a freshman.

The Lady Warrior soccer team now accepts her with open arms, thank you.

Witter was an all-sectional performer last year when she scored 18 goals as a junior in helping Granite City to its first appearance in the girls state tournament. She's hoping for more this year, both from her

Trojanettes 11th at Charleston

Minus Yukeitha Gardner, the Trojanette track team still managed a respectable 11th-place finish in the 32-team Charleston Indoor Meet on Saturday.

Madison scored 12 points and placed in three events. Junior Latrishia Swift was third in the 60 yard dash with a time of 7.5 seconds. Freshman Jackie Newby was fourth in the 220 with a time of 28.3. The 800 relay team of sophomore Tiffany Taylor, Swift, sophomore Joi Woodfork and Newby was fifth with a time of 1:57.7.

Gardner, the defending state champion in the 100 meters, was back in school this week after suffering minor injuries in an automobile accident. She is expected back in the lineup next week when the Trojanettes run in Red Bud on Tuesday.

GC tracksters third in 1st outdoor meet

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

Things went as expected for the Warrior track team in their outdoor opener in O'Fallon on Monday. But that is far from good news.

Granite City finished a distant third in the tri-meet behind O'Fallon (74) and Mascoutah (63). The Panthers won 12 of the 17 events on their way to the easy win.

Larry Curry was the only Warrior to win an event by throwing 52.5 in the shotput. Curry also took second in the discus with a throw of 151.4.

Curry eclipsed the state qualifying distance in the shot, which is 52.0. To qualify in the discus he would have to throw 155.9. "I knew he would do well," said coach Dave McClain. "He threw qualifying distance in the shot and he almost did the same in the discus. To throw like this early is a definite plus."

Two other Warriors took second places. Eric Miner finished the 110 meter high hurdles in 16.01 and also was runner-up in the high jump with a jump of 6.0. Brian Seiz, who has a broken wrist, was second in the two-mile with a time of 10:45. Subbing for Lance Reynolds, who was out of town, Seiz was second in the mile with a time of 5:00.

"We didn't run that badly and Seiz was a big reason for that," said McClain. "I was pleased to see Brian run well even with the broken wrist. He was fairly strong in both events. It was good to see Miner jump 5-0 this early in the season."

Miner was one of four Warriors to take thirds by running the 300 meter intermediate hurdles in 44.2. Shawn Lewis was third in the mile in a time of 5:00. Ron Seitz threw 146-0 in the discus, good for third. Jim Clutts, in the high jump for the first time, jumped 5-10.

"Selph threw impressively for it being the first meet of the year," said McClain. Clutts had never high jumped before and he got up to 5-10, which isn't bad."

Other Warriors who placed were Selph in the 100 meter dash (12.1, 5th) and Jason Blomme in the two mile (11:02, 4th).

"We always seem to go up there (to O'Fallon) and take it on the chin in our first meet," said McClain. "Both of our teams have quality kids and they're usually strong team-wise as well."

Next up for the Warriors is the Belleville East Invitational on April 4.

Madison Khoury League has signups on Thursday

The newly-formed Madison Khoury League will hold its final registration for the 1992 season on Thursday at the Madison Recreation Center, 7th and Lee, at 7 p.m.

A registration fee of $25 per child will be due at the time of sign-up. Parents are encouraged to accompany their children to complete league registration forms and provide uniform size information. The league is open to all Madison youths ages 6-16. Volunteers are also needed for coaching and umpiring duties.

For more information, attend the sign-up or contact league president Frank Chandler at 452-5822.

Illinois State Soccer Association starting area men's league

The Illinois State Soccer Association, in cooperation with leading local youth soccer enthusiasts and organizers, has announced an organizational meeting of a new men's adult league in southern Illinois.

The meeting is April 6 at 7 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the St. Louis University Center. All interested parties are welcome.

to attend. The league schedule is anticipated to run during the summer months. Games will probably be played on Sunday afternoons. Communities expected to participate include Granite City, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Alton and Belleville.

The ISSA expects the new league will strongly rival the St. Louis leagues in competitiveness and quality. The league expects to draw upon college, post-college and ex-high school players as its main resource. For 1993, the league plans to create an over 30 division to accommodate the potentially large numbers of older recreational players.

Park having baseball, softball signups now

The Granite City Park District is taking signups for boys and girls wanting to play youth baseball or ponytail softball.

Any boy or girl who will be 8 years old this year is eligible. Names are placed on a list and teams are formed from this list or managers who need players will fill rosters from the list. Boys and girls who will be 15 years old and younger may also have their name put on a list and every effort will be made to get them on a team.

Anyone interested in managing a youth baseball or softball team should also call or stop in the park office. For more information, call Ray Hoffman at 877-3059.

Co-ed softball league being formed by park

The Granite City Park District is forming a co-ed softball league to be played on Thursday nights at Worthen Park.

The league will start April 30 and will play a 12-game schedule plus playoffs. The fees will be $200 plus $20 per person who lives outside the district. Anyone interested should call Ray Hoffman at 877-3059.

Team seeking players

A newly-formed Granite City girls 14 and under fast-pitch softball team is looking for a few additional experienced players.

The team will be playing in the Collinsville league and some tournaments. For more information, call Harold at 931-4667 or Joe at 931-5177.

Witter to play at SIUE

Lady Warrior soccer fans who want to watch Amanda Witter play college ball won't have to go far.

The senior forward has signed her letter of intent to play at SIUE. She will join coach Brian Korbesmeyer and the Lady Cougars next fall. Former Granite City All-American Jennifer Debeve will be a senior there next year.

"I couldn't handle being too far from home," said Witter. "I'm really close with my family. Coach Korbesmeyer and the program at SIUE seemed right for me."

Witter had considered a junior college in North Carolina, but preferred a four-year school in the same county as her home to a JUCO 1,800 miles away. She had also considered Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo.

"But you have to get along with the coach, and the coach at Lindenwood has some ideas I don't agree with," Witter said.

Witter has a 4.4 grade point average and is a National Honor Society student. She said she would like to go into the medical field in some capacity.

"I've had a lot of thoughts," she said. "It might be as an RN or maybe even sports medicine."

Granite City coach Gene Baker agreed with the decision.

"The SIUE women's program is on the verge of becoming a very good one," he said. "Getting local players like Amanda will only help."

"He really got off to a slow start with the bat last spring, but he was getting adjusted. He came on later in the year and kept it going in the summer."

Marshall figures to be the No. 1 pitcher, with junior Brent Dippel close behind. Dippel was 2-2 with a 2.97 ERA and showed flashes of brilliance. The key is turning those flashes into longer bursts of light.

"He could be the hardest thrower we have," said Stegemeier. "Coach (Gus) Lignoul is working with him on his mechanics. Brent needs to adjust where he comes to the set position with his hands to avoid arm problems."

Other senior pitchers are right-handers Randy Scott (3-2, 4.05 ERA) and Dan Askins (1-1, 2.00). Juniors who should fit in somewhere on the staff are Joe Rieser, Brett Hicks, Dooley and Dippel were the main pitchers on the Junior Legion team which won state.

"This group won't blow hitters away, but if they make people hit the ball and keep it in the park our defense should be able to go and get the ball," said Stegemeier.

gemeier. "And I really expect Drake to be one of the best pitchers in the area."

The probable catcher for that staff is junior Jeff Luffman, who was very good defensively for the Junior Triplets last summer.

"He's like scrap iron back there," said Stegemeier. "Jeff isn't afraid to get dirty. He gets down and blocks low pitches well."

The other catchers are senior Adam Fasick and junior John Tinnon.

Senior John Cozlar, who hit 220 with 12 RBIs last year, will probably move to first base from behind the plate.

"I think we're better defensively with John at first and Jeff catching," said Stegemeier. "John doesn't mind. He just bought a new first baseman's mitt, so I guess he's willing to make the move."

Junior Billy Herman and Dippel could also play first, along with Dooley. The rest of the infield will be Marshall along with juniors Les Nunes and Marc Patton. Patton hit .313 as a sophomore on the varsity level before breaking his ankle in a gruesome collision with Billy Van Buskirk in East St. Louis late in the year. Stegemeier had wanted to move Marshall to third and leave Patton at second, but will probably put Patton at first.

"Drake doesn't seem real comfortable at third," said Stegemeier. "Marc is a little more flexible. Les can handle short stop. That should be a pretty good infield. They all play a heady game."

Van Buskirk, a senior, and junior Jason Maxfield will almost certainly be two of the outfielders, with Van Buskirk in right field and Maxfield in center. Van Buskirk hit .303 with 15 RBIs last year and Maxfield, the likely leadoff hitter, was a surprising .296. Left field is a battle between Stegemeier, Chris Hildreth (222) and Ridenour.

"Ridenour really looks good defensively and he was one of the guys who carried the Junior Legion team with his bat late in the summer," said Stegemeier. "Chris can go get the ball. It depends on which one hits more."

Other possibilities in the outfield include junior Rob Odum, who sat out as a sophomore, Herman and junior Matt Stinson. "We've got real good speed with Marshall, Maxfield, Nunes and Ridenour in particular," said Stegemeier. "Cozlar is a smart baserunner and Luffman can run very well for a catcher."

We should score some runs. If Maxfield can get some bunts down he's a .300 hitter. And we've got some guys like Cozlar, Van Buskirk, Marshall and Luffman who can pop the ball."

at least competitive with anyone else around here.

"If nothing else, the experience of playing in those state and regional tournaments should prove to be valuable."

Stegemeier, like all the other area coaches, is looking for some way to break Edwardsville's dominance of the area. Since the Warriors beat the Tigers for the 1987 regional championship, Tom File's team has won four regionals in convincing fashion and also won the Granite City Sectional three times. Edwardsville was third in the state in 1988, won it all in 1990 and placed second last year.

This year the Tigers (ranked ninth in USA Today's pre-season national poll) are led by senior pitcher Jason Boyd and junior hurler Andrew Thompson. Both were undefeated last year — not surprising since Edwardsville was 39-0 until losing the state championship game to South Holland Thornwood. That ended the Tigers' 64-game winning streak — four shy of the national record.

Besides Boyd and Thompson, the Tigers have Dean Suhre (.434, six home runs, 65 stolen bases last year) along with Matt Hall, Ben Stiemper and Scott Fuller.

"The Belleville schools always have good programs and East St. Louis has handled us pretty well at the underclassman level the last couple of years," said Stegemeier.

The Warriors will face them all in Southwestern Conference competition. They will also meet Edwardsville again in the Granite City Round Robin tournament April 24-25. And defending Class A state champion Belleville Althoff will come to town April 29. Marshall, a former Crusader, will likely want another shot at them after losing a one-run game in Saugat last year.

It should be fun. Play ball! (Dave Whaley is the sports editor of the Press-Record.)

self and the team.

"I would like to score at least one goal for every game we play," said Witter. "But I'll do whatever it takes to get us to state again."

It didn't take Witter long to make her presence known as a freshman in 1989. She scored less than two minutes into the season opener.

But Witter's freshman year, despite nine goals, wasn't all smiles.

"It was tough breaking in on that team," said Witter. "I didn't know a lot of those girls until that year and I really felt unwelcome for quite a while. I was the only freshman on the varsity and it was kind of rough."

Witter credits Jennifer Hagauer for eventually making her feel more a part of the team. It's something she won't forget.

"I go out of my way to make the younger players feel welcome now," Witter said. "If the pressure of being a leader falls on me this year, that's fine. I want to show some leadership and help this team be united."

Witter has always been a scorer, right from the time she started playing soccer at the age of 4.

"I still remember the first goal I ever scored," she said. "I was 4 years old and we were playing at the A. J. Deppel. Someone crossed the ball and it went in off my knee."

Amanda's brother Jeff was playing soccer and she wanted to do it, too. Witter played against boys for many years, and it has paid off.

"I played a lot against Tim Henson and Curt Kessler and a lot of the other guys on last year's (boys) team," she said. "After a while my parents decided it was getting too rough."

But her timing was good. She started high school just as the girls program was on the rise. She has 35 goals in three years, and a 25-goal season wouldn't be out of the question this year.

Witter capped off her junior year with a record-setting performance at the state tournament in Naperville. She set a girls state tournament record with three goals in Granite City's 4-1 win over Downers Grove South in the quarterfinals. Another goal in a 2-1 loss to Schaumburg in the third place game gave her the record for most goals in the tournament (4).

"Everybody else said I played well, but I could have played better," she said. "I guess everyone is her own worst critic. I played OK in the two games I scored in."

But it's a long way to state. And Witter is concerned right now with getting healthy. She's dealing with a muscle injury at the top of the leg near the hip and was held out of practice this week.

Johnson and Julie Goclan. All of them were on the state tournament roster as sophomores. Other juniors who figure to be varsity time this year are Joann Gray and Leslie Laycock.

"I've had groups like this with the boys, but this is the biggest and best class I've had yet with the girls," said Baker. "They're very tough and intelligent on the field and really a quality group of kids. Most of them are honor students."

Kull piled up 13 shutouts last year and Baker thought she should have been all-state. If she attains that honor this year, Granite City will have cornered the market on all-state goalies since Tim Henson was so honored each of the past two seasons with the boys.

"Stephanie has just been super this spring," said Baker. "She responds positively to everything. She has the height (5-9) and might have grown a little last year. Competing in the other sports has helped her."

Rapoff takes care of the sweeper spot in an efficient manner and Goclan is probably the team's best one-on-one defender.

"When it comes to the other team's best attacker, Julie is the one," said Baker. "At midfield we might have to make some changes. But Ann Logan is capable of that role."

That role was to have belonged to sophomore Brooke Bjorkman (five goals, five assists in 1991). But on March 14 she broke her leg in practice and is almost certainly out for the season. There have been several other nagging injuries in practice, but Bjorkman's is clearly the most serious.

Kami Kessel was the other sophomore besides Bjorkman who played varsity as a freshman last year. Joining her as sophomores this year are Lindsey Evans, Jill Haddix, and Denise and Debbie Dutko.

"As good as this year's junior class is, the freshmen could turn out just as good. As many as five of them could play varsity this year. Leading the way is Holly Farnsworth, whom Baker is counting on to help Witter with the scoring load up front.

The other freshmen are Staci Dowdy, Harper Mance, Christy Costello and Jennifer Splaingard.
